By Don Staruk

David O. Cobb was indicted last Thursday, Sept. 28, on one charge of attempted felonious sexual assault for allegedly attempting to lure a 12-year-old Farmington, N.H., boy to a secluded place with the intent to engage in sexual activity.

He also was indicted on 595 child pornography charges.

The Stratford County Superior

Court grand jury indictment was made public Tuesday. Mr. Cobb will be arraigned on the charges next Thursday, Oct. 12, in Dover, N.H.

Mr. Cobb was freed on $100,000 bail after his arraignment on district court charges in the case in August. Prosecutors could seek a higher bail at next week's arraignment, or to have Mr. Cobb detained

Author knows Huddle Fever will make some: Hot under the collar

By Neil Fater

When author Jeanne Schinto was growing up in Greenwich, Conn., the only sound she was likely to hear through an open window was the cry of "Fore!" from a nearby golf course. It was quite different when she moved to Lawrence, where people hear the intimate details of their neighbors' lives, thanks to houses that are huddled together like matches in a book.

It's the closeness of these houses, and of the families within them, that led Ms. Schinto to the title of her newest book, Huddle Fever, now out from Alfred A. Knopf Inc.

Huddle Fever is a book about Lawrence, filtered through the personal experiences and potentially pyrotechnic opinions of Ms. Schinto, who spent 10 years in Lawrence before moving with her husband to Andover.

Why Fenway Park was filled this year despite the strike

By Neil Fater

When the Boston Red Sox and that Cleveland outfit square off again tomorrow for Game Three, it can be viewed not only as a battle of the two best teams in the American League, but also as a rivalry involving the two best groups of fans in baseball. For proof, just look at the attendance figures.

By the time each major league team had played the same number of games they played last year, only Boston and Cleveland had drawn more fans this year than during the strike-shortened 1994 season.

In fact, Pole Hill Drive resident Larry Cancro said no other team even came within 100,000 of its pre-

Dargoonian family: Farming is in their blood

By Don Staruk

Red Dargoonian remembers when Blanchard Street wasn't paved, when Louie Bourdelais plowed snow from it with a team of horses and home-made wooden plow, and when his family's farm was one of 230 farms in Andover.

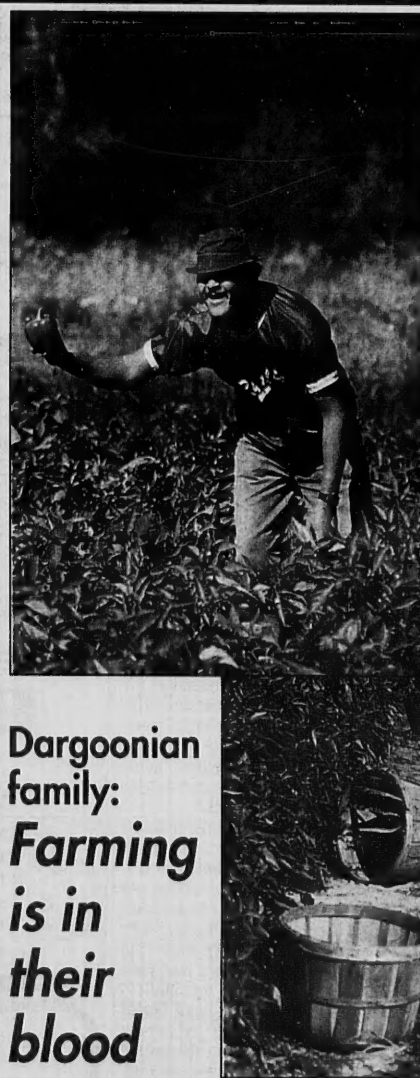

Mr. Dargoonian, 74, retired from farming two years ago. His brother, Ben, 73, still works the farm along with Ben's son, Tom, 42. Most of the land they farm now is on the east side of Blanchard Street, while most of the 50-odd acres they had on the east side of the street at one time has been sold to developers. Thirty-four of those acres will soon be 22 new house lots, the Devonshire Place subdivision, which was approved by planners last week.

"It's not easy to give up your land to houses," Red said earlier this week, looking across the street at the soon-to-be developed land, "not when I've crawled over every inch of it, planting and weeding."

Thoros Dargoonian, Ben and Red's father, died in 1929 when they were just 6 and 7 years old. Their mother, Miriam Loosigian, married Kazar Loosigian the same year and moved from Lawrence to her new husband's 16-acre farm on Blanchard Street. Ninety per-

Public-school students footing some of supplies bill

By Neil Miller

For some parents preparing their children for the first day of school can be like going to Disney World without the rides. They'll spend lots of money and they'll wait in long lines.

But it may not have to be that way.

According to parents, some teachers in the Andover school system send home lists of suggested supplies they believe students will find helpful for their classes. In recent years some of these lists have increased and, as a result, some parents have started to complain about specific lists. They say some of the items — art supplies, for example — should be provided by the schools.

"I think that the lists started growing during the recession, but now we don't have a recession," said Susan Jenkins, parent, building committee and former School Committee member. "I think it's particularly unfair because it assumes families can afford it."

"I did hear (complaints) from a couple of parents. One was in connection with arts supplies — a list that they had to go buy — and another was a math class where they had to buy a certain kind of graphing calculator that was verging on $100," said Tina Girdwood, School Committee member. "It seems to me if that's required, it's just like a textbook."

"That's difficult to expect, in a public school system, kids spending that kind of money for supplies," said Ms. Girdwood. "Perhaps there ought to be a little bit more widespread discussion about that."

However, administrators say these lists contain only "suggested" items and expensive items such as a graphing calculator are not required by the system.

"I talked with (High School Principal) Ellen Parker. What she tells me is that in some of the classes it's recommended that they have a calculator, but there's no requirement that they have a specific calculator," said Dick Neal, superintendent.

Thomas Meyers, teachers union president, said he doesn't believe Andover High School teachers ask for extensive lists of supplies.

"It's one of those issues I've never thought of. It's probably one of those things where if someone can't afford something the system's willing to help out."

He said what he requires for his social studies class "is minimal."

"The books, obviously, and the other materials, (such as) workbooks, are provided. The whole cost is probably five or six bucks.

Deborah Hyde

"I don't care if they use a blue pen, a red pen, but that's not my issue. I'm interested in are they learning," he continued. "I tell the kids I would prefer you have (papers) typed, but if you don't have a computer, you can't."

While many High School teachers don't send a list home for parents, parents say that elementary and middle-school teachers do. Apparently there are mothers and fathers who feel obligated to buy everything on these lists for their children.

"I feel I have to do it because I try to do what's on the suggested list so they're prepared for school. But I feel it's a lot of money," said Deborah Hyde, a Kirkland Drive parent who spent $175 on her middle-schooler and two elementary school students.

However, Ms. Hyde said she understands her children need supplies, such as the three-ring binders, notebooks, rulers, pens, pencils, pencil box and dictionary, which she bought.

"I think it's probably difficult. The teachers are really good because they try to limit the list. The things that are in the list are things that they'll really need and the town can't pay for," she said. "It doesn't really bother me because they're things that they do need and it has to be done."

Nancy Groff, a Lowell Street parent who spent $300 for her six kids' school supplies, also seems to accept the expense of the supplies, but is somewhat unhappy with the intense demand that results at the beginning of a school year.

While elementary teachers send home a list of what will be needed the next year on the last day of school, middle schools don't send the lists home until the first day of the school year.

"Which is harder because everyone goes at the same time" to the same stores, said Ms. Groff. "Have you ever been to CVS the night after school opens? It's horrible. It's like going to Disney World during Christmas break or something."

"There are certain teachers and certain subjects that might want a certain notebook," she said. "That's why it's important to wait for the list."

One possible solution to the first-day crunch would be for teachers to get together with stores in town to tell them what products they will suggest, said people interviewed by the Townsmen for this story.

"If there was a specific teacher with a specific order it would make sense for them to let the stores know, right?" said Mr. Meyers.

Madhu Sridhar, moderator of the Town-wide Parent Teacher Organization, also notes that the amount of money spent on school supplies is up to the individual.

"This is all commercialization, that the kids have to go out and have everything new every year. My personal opinion, if you ask me, is it all depends on the parent," she said. "My feelings are, if you're working in an office or in your house, there are constraints."

Most households already have pens, pencils and rulers and students often can use the same notebook from one year to another, said Ms. Sridhar.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Chairman of National Endowment for the Humanities to speak at Phillips Academy

Sheldon Hackney, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, will speak at Phillips Academy in Kemper Auditorium Wednesday, Oct. 11, at 8 p.m. He has called for a "national conversation" on American identity and values and will speak on that topic. Dr. Hackney is PA's 1995-'96 Alfred E. Stearns Lecturer.

Before becoming chairman in 1993, Dr. Hackney was president of the University of Pennsylvania for 12 years and president of Tulane University for five years. He holds a master's degree and a Ph.D. from Yale University.

The annual Stearns lecture was established in 1926 and has featured speakers such as Lani Guinier, Robert Frost, Dr. Jonas Salk and former president George Bush, a 1942 Andover graduate. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Fund in Stephen Milmo's name is established

Former Andover residents Cornelius and Alexandra Milmo want Andover residents to know that money friends donated in their son's memory has been used to establish a fund for ill children.

Stephen Milmo died April 27, 1994, at the age of 15 of a brain tumor. First diagnosed in 1990, Stephen impressed the community with his spirit and stamina. Friends contributed in his name to a camp in Connecticut called the Hole In The Wall Gang Camp, a place where Stephen said it "felt normal to have cancer." Now the camp has announced that it has established a discretionary fund that will be available to help keep the camp spirit alive for more kids.

His parents wrote on Sept. 24: "Today is Stephen's birthday... Stephen told people who wanted to give him money while he was undergoing treatment that they should give the money to Camp instead. We will always be grateful for the way Camp reached out to Stephen and kept the spirit alive in him more than any of us believed possible. Stephen never had a totally bad day during his whole relapse battle. This is true mainly because there was hardly a day that someone from The Hole In The Wall didn't do something thoughtful for him: a visit, a phone call, a letter, a gift, an adventure.... The kids in the Gang may not have long lives, but now each of them, like Stephen, can have good lives. This fund is named for Stephen, but it will be a tribute to their loving kindness and your thoughtfulness in contributing to the fund.

"For Stephen, and for the Hole In The Wall Gang, thank you all for your past contributions, and I hope you will continue to remember Stephen and the Fund in the future."

The Milmos now live in Wilmington, N.C.

Forum is on counteracting prejudice

The forum will be moderated by the Boston Anti-Defamation League, with representatives from four area communities. The program is sponsored by the Peace Chapter of Jewish Women International, formerly B'nai B'rith Women.

Blood drive scheduled for Oct. 12 at St. Bellarmine Parish

St. Robert Bellarmine Parish Knights of Columbus, in association with the American Red Cross, will sponsor a regional blood drive at the Parish Hall at 198 Haggetts Pond Road Thursday, Oct. 12, from 3 to 8 p.m.

St. A's new principal

By Neil Fater

Mary Moran, the new principal of St. Augustine School, was asked all sorts of questions during the hiring process. There were questions about her administrative style, inquiries about her experience, and questions about her beliefs.

Then, when she was introduced to the students, a first-grader posed a different question.

"Ms. Moran," the child asked, "do you like kids?"

"To me, it was the most poignant question that someone could ask," said Ms. Moran.

As one might expect, Ms. Moran said she does indeed like children. She was particularly happy to see them return to school after spending her first few weeks in a quiet school house — even if it does mean she's now faced with the challenge of learning 528 new names.

"The kids have been wonderful about that," she said. "They're testing me daily."

Ms. Moran became the new principal during the first week of August, after working for nine years as the principal of St. Joseph's School in Lewiston, Maine. She said she's attracted to Catholic schools because of her strong faith and because "the tradition was so rooted in my personal experience."

"I've been in the Catholic school system for all of my (13) years in education, with the exception of the first year. I've been in the Catholic schools by choice," she said. "I was educated in Catholic school in Maine all through grammar school and high school and I always knew I wanted to be involved in education. It was an important part of who I was and what is important to me."

Ms. Moran said she believes parents are becoming more interested in Catholic schools again because of a commitment to family and to teaching values. While there has been debate in the public schools about whether certain values should be taught, St. Augustine students are taught values and have religious classes every day.

"We are mandated by our mission to do that. It really is a luxury we have and it's a nice environment in which to be," said Ms. Moran, who believes values such as honesty, trust and compassion can be taught in school.

"I don't know that it's imposing those values on another person," she said. "But I think it's at least important to share the values (so students) know that they exist."

The reason for St. Augustine School is also made clear to visitors and students by a sign outside of the school's main office. It reads, "Be it known to all who enter here that Christ is the reason for this school. He is the unseen but ever present teacher in its classes. He is the model of its faculty and the inspiration of its students."

As for the religious classes, Ms. Moran said she doesn't consider these classes to be taking away from time that could be spent on art, English or science.

Andover fire dept. responds to Lawrence cutbacks

By Neil Fater

Apparently, Lawrence firefighters aren't the only ones upset with the effects of Lawrence Mayor Mary Claire Kennedy's fire department cutbacks. Andover firefighters are too.

Because of Lawrence's recent decision to leave South Lawrence Station's Engine 5 unoccupied at times, Harold Hayes, Andover fire chief, has issued a change in Andover's mutual aid policy with Lawrence.

Now, if there isn't an engine company in the South Lawrence Station to begin with, Andover won't respond to fill that Lawrence station when there is a fire.

However, Andover will respond directly to fires in South Lawrence if the Lawrence fire department is already handling another multiple-alarm fire.

"We support the decision as it came out so far," although firefighters' representatives are still discussing the issue with the town manager and the fire chief, said Lt. Jim Cuticchia, an Andover firefighter. "We believe that we should stay in West Andover and respond only to the fires.

"When we go over and cover a fire station in Lawrence our station (in West Andover) is empty and that's not fair," he said.

When firefighters respond directly to a fire, off-duty firefighters are called in to fill the Andover station.

Lt. Cuticchia said Lawrence cannot continue to "play on the sympathies of Andover" and other communities, which may be one reason why Andover has followed in the footsteps of North Andover and Methuen by changing its approach to mutual aid.

Andover firefighters are supporting their Lawrence associates in their very public battle with Ms. Kennedy. On Monday, Andover firefighters made an appearance at Lawrence's city council meeting.

Lt. Cuticchia argues that having firefighters on duty is not a luxury, particularly in a city such as Lawrence where many wooden apartment buildings are built so close together.

"I think the city of Lawrence has to come to the realization that they are putting people in jeopardy," he said. "We've gone to the point where they are now running with fewer men than they have (before). We've passed the point of it being ridiculous.

"We've been going there under dangerous circumstances as it is," said Mr. Cuticchia. "We want to go over there and help but we don't want to play Russian roulette. We don't want to add bullets to the gun."

Board of Selectmen appoints disabilities members

By Don Staruk

Selectmen Monday night appointed the first nine members of the newly formed Andover Commission on Disabilities. The members were appointed for one-, two- or three-year terms to facilitate staggered replacements. Second appointments will all be for three years.

Those appointed and the year their terms are completed are: Mark Walker, 1998; Michael Warshawsky, '98; Gina LaFortune, '98; Paul Clinton, '97; Neil Gordon, '97; David Ray, '97; Joanne Stephen, '96; James Wiseman, '96; and Timothy McCarron, '96.

Commission members were scheduled to be sworn in at the start of their first meeting last night, Wednesday, after the Townsmen went to press.

Selectman Jerry Silverman to do maintenance

His fellow board members appointed Selectman Gerald Silverman to serve as liaison to the group whose task it is to review the operations of the town's maintenance department in regard to school buildings. The Committee on Finance and Oversight will look at options for changing the way school maintenance is handled. One proposal being discussed is for the schools to take over maintenance of school buildings.

Members of the group include Buzz Stapczynski, town manager; Tony Torrisi, town budget and finance director; Dick Neal, schools superintendent; and Gail Zeman, schools business manager.

In addition to Mr. Silverman, one liaison each from both the Finance Committee and School Committee is expected to take part in the group's meetings.

Election, Town Meeting dates set

Selectmen this week approved Monday,

March 26, 1996, as the date for the annual town election, and Monday-Wednesday, April 8, 9 and 10, for the 1996 Annual Town Meeting.

The warrant for Town Meeting will open Nov. 1, 1995, and close Friday, Jan. 12, 1996.

The last date to submit nomination papers for annual elections is Tuesday, Feb. 6.

Chairman Larry Larsen said the 73 days the warrant will be open is longer than it has been open in the past and that it should provide ample time for residents to submit warrant articles.

"I love it," Dr. Larsen said.

Money, money, money

Buzz Stapczynski, town manger, told selectmen his Capital Improvement Program containing financial projections for the towns' capital spending projects for fiscal years 1997-2001 will be ready for review Friday, Oct. 20. The CIP includes 40 requests from a variety of town departments, he said.

Train-whistle ban in effect

The ban on train whistles being blown in Andover is in effect, according to Mr. Stapczynski, but "it is not being universally followed."

BUSINESS

Now hair this: Local barber offers hair replacement services

By Neil Fater

Balding people tired of the "Hair today, gone tomorrow" jokes may have access to the last laugh - Colonial Barber Shop's hair replacement system.

Teaming with partner Mike "Andre" Zirakian, barber shop owner Sam Reitano has added a hair replacement business to his hair-cutting establishment. Consultations are available in a private room in the back of the barber shop.

With this new addition, Mr. Reitano hopes people who thought they'd never have to enter a barber shop again will now be coming through the door. Ironically, the new service means he'll be doing more hair cutting, not less.

"When the hair piece comes in it's like a mop. We have to make this hair come to life," said Mr. Reitano. "Everything is custom cut. A stock piece looks like a stock piece."

"A lot of people say, 'If you've seen one hair piece, you've seen them all.' If you can tell it's a hair piece then it's not a good one," said Debbie Cieslik, Sam's scissors-bearing sidekick.

According to Mr. Reitano, hair pieces are bonded to the client's existing hair, which is cut short prior to the bonding. As the hair grows out, the piece becomes loose and the client can come back in and have the piece readjusted and cleaned. Mr. Reitano said maintenance runs $40-$45, and compares favorably to the prices his clients were paying before they came to him.

To avoid attracting attention to the new hair, Colonial will add the hair slowly. "It's a gradual step so this way it doesn't jump out at the public when they're meeting and greeting people," said Lucille Sullivan, a hair stylist and hair replacement technician.

Ms. Sullivan said clients can shower and sleep with the hair, treating it as if it is their own. If the client requests it, Colonial will add gray hair, or highlight, curl or color the replacement.

"My boyfriend had one for eight months and we went to the Caribbean and went snorkeling and there were no ill effects," said Ms. Sullivan. "People are still coming up to him and asking him if he's gained weight." Even his family members had trouble figuring out what was different about him, she said.

Mr. Reitano said he hopes to offer a hair replacement system and wigs for women by the first of the new year.

Why Fenway Park was filled despite the strike

vious year's attendance. Some clubs even attracted 500,000 fewer fans.

"If you project (Red Sox) attendance out to a regular season, 81 home games, it's basically 2½ million people, which is basically what you can put" in Fenway Park, he said.

But why were the turnstiles twirling here, while last year's labor squabbles caused other teams in the playoff hunt to have trouble attracting 20,000 per night?

Mr. Cancro, the Sox vice president of marketing, believes there are three main reasons:

1. Better players, better team

Obviously, the quality of the product is going to affect sales. If the Sox had been cellar dwellers, the little landmark on Lansdowne Street could have seemed downright spacious.

The acquisition of slugger Jose Canseco and the addition of other key players during the season helped to both beef up the roster and spark fan interest, said Mr. Cancro.

"I think Jose told people a lot, that we weren't fooling around," he said. "I've been in baseball since 1979. I've got to say in terms of rebuilding a team, or a team being retooled, I've never seen quite what Dan (Duquette, general manager) did this year. We had 53 players. That's not easy. He does a good job with it and that's given us something to sell."

The attention to player's charitable activities, such as the Mo Vaughn Youth Development Program, also has helped fans to feel good about certain players.

Although Mr. Cancro said he doesn't believe personality is much of a factor when signing players, "I think once they're here it's definitely considered as a plus."

However, other teams had winning records and popular players and did not draw as well as the Sox, so there had to be other reasons.

2. The fanatics themselves

New England's obsession with the Red Sox is well documented. For many fans, Red Sox baseball is their religion; they all remember the day weak-hitting Bucky Dent turned the Green Monster into their Wailing Wall. Some teach their kids early that Dent's middle name can't be printed in a family newspaper.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

A STOCK ANSWER

When evaluating a stock, many securities analysts turn to its price-to-earnings ratio (p/e). This is the number they get when they divide a company's share price by its profit or net income per share. Also known as the multiple, the p/e presents investors with a single number that they can use to compare the values of stock prices. The higher the p/e, the more investors are paying to share in that company's profits. The more confident that investors are that a company will improve its profitability or that it will remain profitable, the more they are willing to pay for its shares - thus raising the p/e. On the other hand, if profits are threatened or are weak, the p/e is likely to drop as investors demand compensation for the risk of disappointing returns. A high or low p/e alone is not sufficient reason to buy a stock. Many other considerations also pertain. Mutual funds offer an attractive, efficient way to be involved in the stock market, while taking full advantage of professional research. Please let us help you choose which investments are appropriate for you.

Deciding which stocks are the right investment for you has everything to do with how long you intend to hold onto the stock before cashing it in. Whatever investment goal you seek, we at BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES can help you achieve your financial planning objectives. Since 1901 we have worked hard to meet the financial needs of our clients. Please call us at 475-9212 to schedule an appointment. We are conveniently located at 10 Essex Street here in Andover. We also have an office in Boston located at 100 N. Washington Street (617-523-4500).

HINT: Price-to-earnings ratios also depend on how stocks compare with other investment opportunities. When rates rise, p/e's fall because fixed-income yields become more attractive.

Why Fenway Park was filled despite strike

So it shouldn't come as a surprise that with the Sox in first, Fenway has been packed.

"We have one of the most enthusiastic fan bases in the game," said Mr. Cancro. "They certainly missed it while there was a strike and though there were some unpleasanties, they were looking forward to its return."

3. The new effort aimed at pleasing fans

Finally, Mr. Cancro believes the fans have returned to the Red Sox because during the off-season the organization "developed a strategy where we try to respond to the needs of the fans."

A survey of fans showed that they wanted concession changes, and so the Sox expanded and revamped their food services. Foul balls were thrown into the stands, a "Thanks fans" sign adorned the center field scoreboard, and tickets were half the normal cost for the handful of home games in April.

But Mr. Cancro and others throughout the Sox organization believe one of the most important decisions was to have the Friendly Fenway Family Festival May 15.

During a rainy Monday, 30,000 fans showed up at Fenway for the chance to meet and talk with their favorite players.

"Our players poured their hearts into it and so did the fans. You could kind of see the bond being rebuilt a little bit," said Mr. Cancro.

According to Mr. Cancro, the players and the Sox brass came up with the idea after getting together before the season.

"If we're able to do more for the event (baseball) by working well together, it behooves us to do so. I guess what I'm saying is organization and a little extra effort makes those things go further."

"The bottom line was the fans were pleased," he said. "A lot of teams ended up calling us because it seemed the fan reception was better for us than elsewhere around the league."

Of course, if the Red Sox win it all, the reception will be off the charts. But Mr. Cancro said the BoSox brass haven't made any parade plans yet.

"We win 'em first. We celebrate later. We don't want to put the cart before the horse."

We're going to try to get our work done first and there will be time for that later," he said.

AHS contingency fund may be in jeopardy

By Neil Fater

Though the Andover High School construction project is less than half finished, the bulk of the contingency fund – the money set aside for unexpected expenses – may already be spent.

A summary page from the most recent High School progress report, dated Sept. 18, says, "This report shows a balance in the contingency budget of $128,993 which is 93 percent of the budgeted amount. The project is 44 percent complete."

However, all of this 93 percent will not necessarily be spent, said Buzz Stapczynski, town manager.

He described this figure as a "worst-case, raise-the-red-flag-to-show-us kind of thing."

According to Mr. Stapczynski, the town has only committed to spending a little more than $900,000, which is about 52 percent of the contingency fund. The town may not necessarily agree that it owes the rest of the amount itemized in the report.

Nevertheless, some School Building Committee members are concerned about the shrinking contingency fund. Susan Jenkins, committee member, has been asking the architects to come up with a list of potential cuts or other cost-saving ideas in case the contingency fund becomes tapped out.

Ms. Jenkins said she expects the contingency fund to be an important topic at the building committee meeting tonight, Thursday.

Mr. Stapczynski said those involved with the project are considering what must be done should the contingency money continue to evaporate.

"Are we talking to the architects and Mead (the project manager) about it? Yes we are. I have $26.5 million to do the job, it can't be more simple than that," said Mr. Stapczynski. "Let's put it this way: Everything's under review."

"We're looking into what remains to be done, what costs can be controlled,"

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hoggood, D.M.D.

GUM DISEASE

The first stage of gum disease is called gingivitis, inflammation of the gums. Symptoms include soft, painful, bleeding gums, as well as unpleasant breath odor. Episodes of gingivitis may be triggered by changing hormone levels during puberty, pregnancy, and the premenstrual phase of the monthly cycle. Oral contraceptives may also be at fault, as can such medications as antidepressants and antihistamines which reduce saliva levels and disrupt the normal levels of oral bacteria. Whatever the cause, gingivitis should be addressed. If left to progress onto the next stage of gum disease, periodontitis, the bacterial infection can spread to the tissues surrounding the tooth root. Once the periodontal ligament and surrounding bone become thus infected, tooth loss can occur.

"Periodontal" comes from two Greek words that mean "around the tooth." There are several types of periodontal disease, and all are started by bacteria which attack the gums, bone, and ligaments that support the teeth in the jaw. Since it is usually painless, you may not know you even have it unless you have regular dental checkups. Practice preventive care - call 475-2431 for an appointment at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. Hrs: Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, & by appointment.

P.S. One of the latest methods of combating gum disease involves inserting tetracycline-coated fibers into the periodontal pockets to fight bacteria directly.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

FIRST, MANY TRY CHIROPRACTIC

According to a recent Gallup survey, 18 million Americans visit chiropractors each year. The majority of these patients seek relief from back and neck pain. Many patients cite the conservative nature of chiropractic philosophy as being a main reason for their attraction to chiropractic, which uses neither drugs nor surgery. Studies indicate that if chiropractic is going to prove to be of benefit, patients will experience relief within one to six weeks. This can involve an average of six to twelve visits. In cases of back pain involving uncomplicated strain, symptoms may subside on their own within 12 weeks. According to a 1992 report in the "Annals of Internal Medicine," however, chiropractic can speed the natural recovery process. This means fewer days away from work, less pain, and more mobility.

Research throughout the world has proved chiropractic to be exceptionally safe and effective in allowing restoration of health. At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we provide the best available chiropractic health care in the most modern, well equipped facility. We're located at 15 Central Street, where we welcome any questions our patients may have regarding their care and happily answer them. Please call 475-5042 to schedule an appointment.

P.S. A 1990 "British Medical Journal" report concluded that chiropractic therapy was more effective than conventional hospital treatments in treating chronic and severe low back pain.

At the regular business meeting of American Legion Post 8, two Andover High School students reported their experiences at the American Legion-sponsored Boys State Program. Christopher Sheldon and Ted Witman attended the program, held on the campus of Bentley College in June.

This program teaches youth the appreciation of and basic principles of democratic government. The students are active participants in the governing of a model state, assuming roles as elected public officials. The two Boys State Citizens reported that they gained leadership experience, which will be helpful when they apply to college or a military academy, said post commander Leo J. Doherty.

The 1995-'96 school year marks the 60th anniversary of Central Catholic High School, which was founded by the Marist Brothers to offer youth in the Lawrence area a values-oriented, college preparatory Christian education.

Central now draws more than 650 students of diverse ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds from 31 communities throughout northern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire, including Andover.

Central Catholic has more than 9,000 alumni - from the 50 boys who were its first students to the present student body. The school has planned many events to celebrate its 60th year. Beginning tomorrow, this weekend has been designated "60th weekend" at the school.

EDUCATORS' EVENING AT PA'S ADDISON GALLERY

Two of Andover's public school principals, Charles Friel of West Elementary and Floyd McManus of Doherty Middle School, examine the artwork last week at the Addison Gallery's Educators' Evening at Phillips Academy. The museum brings materials to West, while Doherty students enjoy the proximity they have to the Addison.

Photos by Lisa Adelsberger

West Elementary kindergarten teacher Grace Jamison talks with Andover High humanities teacher Frances McCormick. Teachers got ideas on how exhibitions can be integrated into classroom teaching from Rebecca Hayes, the Addison's education outreach coordinator.

Lawrence teachers Angela Caulfield of the Oliver School and Nancy Beirne of the Leahy School find the Addison Gallery a comfortable place to visit. Teachers were treated to a slide lecture about fall-term exhibitions by Addison director Jock Reynolds, followed by a buffet supper served in the Underwood Room.

Sanborn School teachers Terry Palardy, Mary Ellen Dahlstrand and Martha Walsh enjoy the artwork.

CROWDS ENJOY 4TH ANNUAL WEST FEST

The rides and games for West Fest '95 were set up last weekend at West Elementary School for West Middle's fourth annual West Fest. The first hour on Friday was reserved just for students. Sunday featured a special deal - ride all day for a $10 ticket.

West Fest's carousel horses sparkle in the sun. The three-day family carnival is sponsored by the West Middle PAC to raise funds for the school's enrichment programs, cultural events, field trips and more.

West Middle School's new principal, Vicki Simms, jokes with her students "in-between dunks." A number of teachers, coaches, and some good-natured town officials also had the chance to wear a wetsuit.

Educating parents about media images

Renee Hobbs, director of Harvard Media Institute and professor of communications at Babson College, will present "Tuning in to media: Literacy for the Information Age" Wednesday, Oct. 11, 7:30-9:30 p.m. at the Collins Center auditorium on Shawsheen Road. Dr. Hobbs' talk will give strategies for parenting. The talk is open to the public. There is no charge for admission.

The information superhighway is well under construction. Electronic databases can provide a library of information in a matter of seconds. In print and electronic media, the line between entertainment and information is now blurred. It will be more important than ever for readers and viewers to be able to process media messages carefully.

Students are subjected to thousands of media messages every day, from newspaper stories, to live TV coverage of events, to commercials, billboards, and sales posters in the mall. Too often students accept the messages without questioning them, without stopping to examine the truth of the content, or motive of the message creator. Students must be critical consumers of information and persuasive media messages.

Media literacy is the ability to access, analyze, evaluate and generate the powerful images, words and sounds that make up our contemporary mass-media culture. It creates active rather than passive consumers of media. Proponents agree that media literacy can and should begin at home and as early as pre-school years, when children are first exposed to TV, computers, movies and other media.

This is the first in a series of parenting education speakers co-sponsored by Andover's Parent To Parent, Townwide PTO, and Pike School. Parent To Parent will also offer two STEP (Systematic Training For Effective Parenting) workshops. For parents of children ages 4-12, classes begin Wednesdays, Oct. 25-Nov. 22, 8:30-10:30 a.m. For parents of teens, classes are scheduled for Thursdays, Oct. 17-Nov. 14, from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

For registration information, call Lynn Wailes at 475-3956 by Saturday, Oct. 14.

- Parent To Parent

- By the age of 18 the average young person in the United States will have seen 350,000 commercials
- Since the introduction of the Joe Camel campaign in 1988, the sale of Camel cigarettes to the under 18 market is estimated to have increased from $6 million to $476 million annually
- Hours per year the average American youth spends in school: 900 hours
- Hours per year the average youth watches TV: 1,500 hours

Media literacy is the ability to access, analyze, evaluate and generate the powerful images, words and sounds that make up our contemporary mass-media culture.

West Middle has sign-up for Odyssey of the Mind

You never know what kind of unusual problems life will deal you. Sometimes you need to think on the spot, find a new approach, use skills you never knew you had, and rely on team members with different talents.

Most people don't get much training for this kind of problem-solving. That's why the Odyssey of the Mind program was developed. It poses wacky, fun problems challenging students to stretch their creative-thinking abilities while learning to appreciate the value of teamwork.

If you saw the movie Apollo 13, you saw an "OM-type" problem when a team of NASA scientists had to create a square filter for a round hole using only the material available to the stranded astronauts. The OM problems are a mixture of long- and short-term challenges. Team members contribute different talents to the solution - artistic, mechanical, literary, technical, musical, organizational and dramatic. The teams meet weekly and present their projects at a regional competition in March. This year's five long-term problems are:

A m u s i n ' Cruisin': design, build and drive a vehicle on two journeys that will take the driver(s) to see "attractions" in a team-created "theme park."

O M v e n t i o n: design a new product that assists a person with a physical disability perform a certain task and show how the project works in humorous skit.

Great Impressions: select a painting by a French Impressionist and

AHS Marching Band hosts first competition

The 1995 Andover High School Marching Band kicked off its season Friday, Sept. 15, at the first AHS football game.

The 39-member band will perform at all football games. Touchdowns are heralded with the school song and spirited encouragement is translated into musical notes. Some "stand" music is performed in combination with vocal cheering, most often led by band president Kelly Gellespie. Liz Roy is vice president, Sara Provencher is secretary and Chris Sheldon is treasurer.

The band performs its field show at halftime. Senior Kate O'Donnell, drum major, marks the time for the band while color guard captain Hope Sullivan and her team add visual back-up with flags.

Beginning in August, with three days at band camp, band members have been learning a new show under the direction of Mark Napierkowski, band director, and his staff: Kerri Younker, assistant band director; Bob Mulvanity, drill design instructor; Mark Kelly and Joe McFarland, percussion instructor; Steve Dorgan, music writer; Sandy McCarthy, color guard instructor, and Liz Drew, assistant color guard instructor. "There was a lot of hard work and teamwork" at band camp, stated Mr. Napierkowski.

This year there are 16 new members. The theme, "La Fiesta Mexicana," was chosen because it has elements of a different culture, lighter music and fun.

Andover will host the first of the 1995 band competitions Sunday, Oct. 8, at 1 p.m. at Eugene Loveley Field at Andover High School. Each band performs for at

SHIFTS IN REAL ESTATE MARKET TRENDS

Last summer your neighbors put their house on the market and had so many buyers that they were on the winning side of a bidding war. Now you are trying to sell your home, and there's just no action. The real estate marketplace is very fickle. Many factors come into play, the most important being interest rates and prevailing sales prices. In a strong seller's market, prices tend to escalate until they reach a certain point where buyers begin to just say no and listing inventories increase. When this happens, sellers who price their homes at the higher level of previous sales prices must re-think their pricing strategies. If they don't, their homes may not sell. Whether you are buying or selling a home, it is important to remember that the shift from a seller's to a buyer's market can occur very quickly. You can count on us for sound advice on what phase the market is in right now.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Please call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

THE VALUE OF EMOTIONAL SUPPORT

There is little question that stress plays a primary role in increasing the risk of disease, and even death. Those who wish to counteract stress' adverse effect may do well to seek emotional support from friends and family. This is the conclusion of Swedish researchers who followed the lives of 750 middle-aged men over a period of seven years. Each of the male subjects reported experiencing three or more stressful events in the year before the study began. Over the period of the study, those men who enjoyed emotional support were no more likely to die than men who enjoyed less stressful lives. This is merely more proof that love is the most valuable gift of all.

If friends and family are not immediately available to you for emotional support, there are probably one or more support groups in your area. You may wish to sit in on a meeting or two to see which among the groups available best suit your needs. Another way to be with people is to volunteer your time to an agency or institution that interests you. For more information about the topics in this week's column, call BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. We are located at 390 North Main Street.

Essex Gravel pit eyed for new ball fields

By Don Staruk

After reviewing several options and cost estimates for the location of three new athletic fields Monday night, selectmen seemed to lean toward putting all three fields in the former Essex Gravel pit at a cost of about $1.2 million.

Bob McQuade, Department of Public Works director, showed selectmen several options for where the three fields, for which some funds were appropriated at Town Meeting last April, could be located. Mr. McQuade said he was asked by Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, to consider four specific sites.

The options he presented were:

- Ledge Road: One baseball field and parking for $321,750;
- Sanborn School: One soccer field for $328,750;
- Recreation Park: One full-size soccer field, one under-size soccer field, two new tennis courts, one new multipurpose court and parking for $924,770, or;
- Essex Sand & Gravel pit: Two soccer fields, a seeded grass area and parking for $1,157,460.

After some discussion, Mr. McQuade said he could fit a softball field - not a full-size baseball diamond - onto the seeded grassy area in the Essex pit at an additional cost of about $50,000.

Costs given for all the fields include irrigation systems, but not lighting. Mr. McQuade said his estimates for lighting varied too much to come up with a fair number.

Mr. Stapczynski said the warrant article approved in April restricted the location of the fields to the Essex pit, a Cross Street location, South School or Sanborn School. If the pit is chosen as the site, the $384,000 appropriated last April could be applied to the $1.2 million. In either case, a new request would have to go back before town meeting for the additional funds.

The South School and Cross Street sites were abandoned after area residents voiced opposition to those sites, Mr. McQuade said. The Sanborn site may be too expensive and offer too many topographical challenges to be worthwhile for a single field. That left Rec Park and the pit.

The Rec Park option would require one small soccer field to go at the bottom of the hill next to Poms Pond.

Board members seemed to favor the Essex pit, even though it is an expensive option. It would put all the fields in one place, with parking, and the topography would provide a natural amphitheater.

"What we're talking about is really a sports complex. I'm proud of it," Selectman Larry Larsen said.

The biggest obstacle in the pit is that a road would have to be constructed into the side of the steep hill in the area at a cost of about $150,000. A retention pond for drainage would also need to be built.

The fields issue will come up again at a joint meeting of the Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee and School Committee on Friday, Oct. 27.

Andover's 350 years of history is the focus of a half-hour television special hosted by Michael Chiklis, ABC-TV's The Commish. Mr. Chiklis also shares personal memories of growing up in Andover.

Michael Chiklis

The town of Andover's 350th Anniversary Committee has asked Renee Sanft, executive producer of Sandcastle Productions, to create this program in collaboration with the Andover Historical Society.

The television documentary covers the town's heritage beginning with its earliest inhabitants, 16th-century Native Americans, and continuing through a look towards the 21st century. It was filmed on location in historic Andover, including North Andover, South Lawrence, and present-day Andover.

Prominent people, places, and spaces in Andover's history are highlighted. Travel to Holt Hill, the highest point in Essex County, where colonists watched the burning of Charlestown; revisit the big band era at the Balmoral Spa/Gardens; and learn about the town's early industrial development, with textiles and printing, to list just a few.

Ms. Sanft's credits include national and international productions such as the recently released Perfect Harmony with Marvin Hamlisch, the Boston Symphony Orchestra and The Tanglewood Music Center Orchestra.

The television special is expected to be broadcast on Boston television and released on videocassette during Andover's 350th anniversary next year.

Fire at Memorial Circle

Jeanne Schinto's Huddle Fever

some history but also partly a memoir and also literary reportage right on the scene," she said. "I also think it's unclassifiable. I wanted it that way."

Apparently Ms. Schinto also was interested in the relationship between Lawrence and surrounding suburbs such as Andover. She pulls few punches while probing the historical relationship and the current attitudes of both Andoverites and Lawrencians.

Yet despite their differences she writes, "Genteel Andover is inextricably linked with its rude cousin, Lawrence," even if many prefer to pretend otherwise.

"I think that some people will think I'm somewhat harsh about the snob factor," she said. "I wouldn't call it harsh, I want it to be considered accurate."

Because it is so easy to extract a juicy quotation from her book, Ms. Schinto knows some life-long Merrimack Valley residents will be upset by Huddle Fever, even if they never get around to reading more than a few excerpted paragraphs of the 300-page book.

Monday evening, selectmen and the town manager seemed disappointed with how Andover was portrayed in the book, although they weren't even sure of its name, believing the title to be Huddle City.

"It certainly will be misconstrued. I'm expecting controversy. I'm also expecting people won't read it and will just read the newspaper articles," she said. "You can't fault someone for their views. It's a personal book. You can't write to order..."

You can't write to please everybody? "Or to please anyone, really," she answered.

"I didn't really think about writing a boosterish book or a negative book while I was writing. I just recorded or wrote down what I was thinking," she said. "I found it interesting. It certainly held my attention for 10 years and for the two years I was writing it. I never got sick of it."

Although Ms. Schinto says at the outset of the book that she decided to write it after her Lawrence neighbor committed suicide, that was only part of the reason for the work. She was curious about what had caused some of the city's problems and believed the city's history - particularly its more recent history - had been as ignored as the rest of Lawrence.

"No one's really written about the current history except in newspapers. No one's analyzed the stories or sifted through them," she said. "There's more to those stories. I knew there was."

While Ms. Schinto did put in her hours of research, a good portion of the book also draws on personal experiences.

"The fires, absolutely, I saw them. I smelled them and we were sort of victimized by them because these charred hulks were right across the street from us," she said.

Jeanne Schinto

And though she witnessed at least six fires in the immediate area around her home, she saw many more stolen cars show up on her street.

The plan was, "You get a car, drive it around and then park it in front of Jeanne Schinto's place, it seemed to me," she said.

Although she acknowledges these problems, Ms. Schinto still remains a vocal supporter of Lawrence. She said she never intended to leave the city until she and her husband, Bob Frishman, realized that they would need to move if his new business was to succeed. They now live on Andover's Poor Street.

"I was glad that I hadn't moved here (to Andover) right away because I felt I would have never got to know that place," she said. "The other thing is I wouldn't have had as much anonymity. Nobody knew I was a writer. No one in Lawrence would have said, 'Yeah, I saw your New York Times review,' not any of my immediate neighbors anyway."

But Ms. Schinto admits that often she did feel out of place as a white-collar writer in Lawrence, the Immigrant City, the City of Workers.

"So many writers are outsiders. They had better be or they'll lose it," she said. "I think you become an insider at your peril. People think I'm this quiet type but I'm really not. I wanted to say the truth about the things that I saw."

She also wanted to analyze as much as she could about the city. After all, she'd heard intelligent people talk about the Methuen Mall being the reason for Lawrence's troubles.

"As if the Methuen Mall could be the downfall of a city of 100,000 people!" she said, her voiced tinged with both amusement and disgust. "I may have done some things wrong, but I don't think I made the mistake of being monochromatic."

At the beginning of Huddle Fever, Ms. Schinto writes that she will not offer solutions to Lawrence's problems, but inevitably she does offer suggestions.

It seems Ms. Schinto believes that the mill buildings, ironically built to last an eternity, now act only as monstrous weights taking up space and dragging the city down. She believes Lawrence needs to rely on small business and its residents must develop a positive self-image, ideas Bob Frishman championed during an unsuccessful run for public office.

Attracting huge companies to fill the space and offer jobs is not going to work anymore, she contends, and last week's news that Bull HN Information Systems will close seems to bear this out.

But the most difficult problem to overcome may be finding a cure for "huddle fever," the condition that results from cramped housing and cloying families.

In 1911, the authors of a charitable fund survey criticized the builders of Lawrence apartment houses for placing the buildings so close together. "Huddling people together is a disease," they stated, and Ms. Schinto agrees.

"It can be as limiting as a debilitating disease," she said. "I referred to it as a kind of psychological disease or phenomena. And the crampedness of the housing makes for a kind of fearfulness and cloying closeness of families."

So the closeness of the buildings is not the only problem. Because of the closeness of their families, many Lawrence children feel they must stay close to home, said Ms. Schinto. The children of immigrants often help serve as a cultural buffer and translator for their parents. As a result, they may be discouraged from trying something different than their family uses, may never do anything new and thus can have difficulty succeeding.

"I think if you read the book closely, you can see it (huddle fever) as a theme," she said.

Ms. Schinto will sign copies of Huddle Fever tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 6, at 7 p.m. at the Andover Bookstore.

Seniors back looking for a site for their center

By Don Staruk

If you thought the controversy around whether to build a new senior center or expand the old one had been settled, think again.

Council on Aging representatives in July were moving ahead with plans to expand the existing senior center in its current location. But the Friends of the Andover Senior Center, a group formed to raise money for construction of a new center, has since balked on raising funds for the expansion.

The group's charter stated that the money would be for a free-standing building, according to Dorothy Bresnahan, Council president, "and they don't feel that their donors want to put money into renovating a town-owned building."

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, told selectmen Monday night that the Council is back reviewing options that include construction of a free-standing building. Council members also are looking at a couple of different options for a location for such a building, including the playfield behind Doherty School, he said. That playfield had been discussed as a possible location in the past.

"That site is still very much alive," as well as others, said Mr. Stapczynski.

"All we're doing is looking at options," Ms. Bresnahan said this week.

One option is the Friends group changing their charter, Ms. Bresnahan said.

"Right now it's all up in the air," she said. "Without funds, we can't go forward."

Mr. Stapczynski said he is encouraged by the turn of events because the Council's future plan included expansion onto the second and third floors of the current building, which would have displaced the school administration offices. He feared the School Committee could have gone to town meeting to block those plans. Now, the decision has been made and he thinks a free-standing building is probably the best way to go.

If the seniors opt for the Doherty playfield location, the task will then be to convince the School Committee to allow use of that piece of land.

"I think the issue is, what's right for the seniors," Mr. Stapczynski said. "I think it's a good site."

The architect would then need to squeeze the seniors' proposals into a building that would fit on the small lot, Mr. Stapczynski said.

Farming is in their blood

cent of Andover didn't even know where Blanchard Street was back then, Red said.

The farm didn't make any money in those days because there was no irrigation, Red said. Later, the brothers used a "donkey engine," an old single-piston machine rigged to a softball-size Sears and Roebuck pump, for their first irrigation system. It would only pump enough water for one row of plants. But it was a start. They dug a hole and stuck that first pump in the spring water, then dug the hole bigger every time they increased the size of the pump. The farm was also growing in increments. Eventually they acquired 15 acres from Almas Asoian, their step-aunt, 10 acres from John Forbes. And they bought 13 acres out of tax title. The farm was 50 acres at one time. Today a diesel engine pumps the water from the hole, which is now a pond with plenty of water for the farm, even in this year of severe drought.

In the 1930s, Andover was all farms, according to Red.

"Every street there were farms," he said.

He mentioned Burt Jenkins' farm off Elm Street, after which Burton Farm Road was named, and the chicken farms in Ballardvale such as Hall's chicken farm on Dascomb Road. But most of those are now gone.

The Dargoonians sold 15 acres to Raytheon Co. for a parking lot when the company expanded here in the late '60s. Ten years ago, after starting plans for the development approved last week, Red worked out a land trade with the state, which owned 42 acres of forest on the west side of Blanchard Street. He paid for the 42 acres and the state used the money to buy an equal amount of land on Plum Island.

The Dargoonians have since cleared and planted 15 acres of the 42, and are working to clear another five. The only restriction on the land purchased from the state is that it remains in some type of agricultural use.

Blanchard Street, the Dargoonians will only retain 5 or 6 acres, including the pond with some land around it, and Ben's house and yard.

Times change

Tom is the third generation of farmers on the Dargoonian farm and, other than a short stint as a masonry laborer in Boston in the 1970s, farming has been his only job.

"I was helping out when I was a kid," he said. "I've been full time here since 1971 - 24 years."

Red's son, Gary, lives with his mother in New Hampshire and is not involved in the farm operation.

"If they were able to work together we would never have sold that," Red said of the original farm.

Tom and Dena, his wife, have three daughters, the youngest just an infant, but Red doesn't think the girls will be farmers.

"So we figured develop this and this would give me my retirement," he said.

As Red talked, Tom Patenaude, of Bradford Glen builders of Tewksbury, developers for Devonshire Place, stopped by to discuss plans for the cinder-block barn that will have to come down to make way for the road-way to the new development. The Dargoonians built the barn 49 years ago, after Ben returned from the war in Europe.

"Times change," Red said. "How I felt at 50 years old, how I felt at 60 and how I feel at 70 - you just let go. I don't feel the same. It's time to let go."

"But the farming never comes out of your blood," Red said.

Even when he goes on vacations, the first thing he does is go to the farms - in Florida, California, wherever.

He visited Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif., twice, and there is a 40-acre tract of land with strawberries on it right next to the Disneyland Hotel.

"I couldn't wait to get out there and walk down the rows of strawberries," said Red. "You're right at home talking with the guys. It doesn't matter what country you're in - you're right at home."

Harvest time at one local working farm

By Don Staruk

The crows are eating well at Dargoonian Farm and Greenhouses in West Andover. And there's not a whole lot anyone can do about it.

"They're vicious," Red Dargoonian said of the scavenging birds.

Although he could shoot a few of the birds, there are hundreds of them, and the damage they do to crops is significant.

Between rot, insect and animal pests "we throw away 8 to 10 percent," said Tom Dargoonian. "Woodchucks don't enjoy the peppers. They love cabbage and lettuce. They love greens."

Tom and his father, Ben, own and operate the farm. Red, Ben's brother, retired a couple of years ago from the day to day operations.

It's harvest time at the Dargoonians and Tom was in the fields last Thursday with a dozen immigrant laborers, picking peppers. They'd picked eggplant earlier and this week were picking cabbage.

They will continue picking eggplants and peppers as long as there isn't a frost. The farm saw only a bit of frost last Friday night when temperatures dipped below 32 degrees in spots. But it was not enough to significantly damage the crops.

The Dargoonians have about 18 acres of crops planted this year. They're hoping to clear and plant more next year.

"We get pretty high productivity out of the 18 acres because of the type of crops - they're renewable," Tom said.

The eggplant and pepper plants produce vegetables for two months.

They also had an advantage this year because of their irrigation system. Drawing from their own pond, the Dargoonians did not lose any crops to this summer's drought.

"We've had an excellent crop," Tom said.

Tom said it has taken years for the new fields on the east side of Blanchard Street to start producing good crops. They added humus, manure and rye grass. The nitrogen was so high at first that the pepper plants just turned to vines.

"It took seven to eight years to get it from woodlands to a good producing piece of ground," Tom said. "This is the first good year."

Workers

All of the workers are originally from Puerto Rico, and used to work the farm as migrant workers, returning every year. But about 10 years ago they moved to the area with their families, settling in Lowell, Lawrence and southern New Hampshire, and working full time at the Dargoonians' farm. Some stay on year round. Others will get laid off in a few weeks, after the frost, and will be hired back Feb. 1, when the work starts for the next growing season.

David Perez has been working the Dargoonian Farm for 20 years. Felix Porotta, 52, of Lowell, has worked there since he was 18. Women are noticeably absent in the fields. "We don't have too many women applying," Tom said.

Peppers are seeded in late March and grow to about 10 inches before they're planted outside around June 1. Eggplants also are seeded in the greenhouses, but cabbage is seeded in the field.

Employees who stay will work with the 10,000 poinsettias already growing in the greenhouses. Some will be ready to ship the day after Thanksgiving. They also will grow various bedding plants, hanging plants and potted geraniums for sale in the spring, and hearty mums for summer.

Harvest

The workers pick, wash and pack thousands of bushels of produce in the two months of harvest. Felix Rodriguez says he can pick 40 to 50 bushels of peppers or eggplants a day. The crew will load 150 boxes of cabbage in a day, roughly 14 heads to a box.

Most of their product is sold to DeMoulas and delivered to a DeMoulas warehouse in Tewksbury.

"Even this volume is not enough to satisfy the demand that they need. They still have to buy from the outside," Tom said.

The peppers and eggplants are put through a special wash machine, then packed and refrigerated overnight. The next day they are loaded onto a truck and taken to DeMoulas. Cabbage doesn't require washing and is packed right in the field.

Tom Dargoonian said he tries to use very few pesticides.

"The idea is, we try not to use it if possible," Tom said.

Changing business

"The style of farming we have has changed a lot," Red said.

Where they used to have 25 or 30 different crops, including carrots, beets, trellis tomatoes, onion, scallions, they now have only three or four. It was too expensive to pay help and too time consuming to continue with the variety of crops. To survive, they needed to concentrate on a few crops and produce in greater volume.

"Supermarkets need volume," says Red.

The days of taking vegetables to a market are past, according to the Dargoonians. They used to take all their produce to New England Produce Center in Chelsea. But the market paid a lower price, involved transportation costs, and the middleperson took a commission of up to 58 percent. Farmers either opened their own roadside stands and branched out into bakery goods, flowers and fruits, such as at Smolak Farms in North Andover, or targeted selling volume directly to supermarket chains, as the Dargoonians did. Others went out of business.

"You couldn't be in business if you went to market now," Ben said.

"A red pepper is a ripe pepper," Tom said.

The Dargoonians currently grow four types of peppers, two that they're experimenting with.

"We always try new varieties to find one that's better," Tom said.

But they are all green peppers. Some are bred to remain green longer, and so that when they do turn, they go from green to red quickly.

The breeding can also affect how long they stay yellow and orange before they turn red. Color can also be controlled through the nutrients they are fed.

Lori Silverman and Nancy Maher's family make some important connections

By Alix Driscoll

"Lori is a part of our family. We enjoy Lori's friendship; she has a lot of energy," Nancy Maher says about her 6-year-long friendship with Lori Silverman.

When Ms. Maher and her family moved to Andover in 1989, after her teaching career at Buckingham, Browne and Nichols School in Cambridge, she wanted to get involved in the community. A fine way would be to help provide a social network for a developmentally-delayed adult, she says, so she joined the Fidelity House Connections program.

Enter Lori Silverman and the start of a good friendship. Ms. Silverman, 35, a developmentally-delayed person, who lives at the Fidelity House residence at 94 Morton St., has shared many important and comfortably cozy events in the life of the Maher family.

"Lori is very perceptive about things," says Ms. Maher, grateful for the comforting words of understanding when her husband's mother died two years ago.

"And she looked into my eyes when I was (only) three weeks pregnant and said, 'You're going to have a baby,'" says Ms. Maher, who was astonished at the time about her friend's intuition.

Ms. Maher, her son, Peter, age 6, and daughter, Colleen, 3, meet about twice a month with Ms. Silverman, usually on Thursdays at the conclusion of the latter's workday. She does cleaning for the Willows Racquet & Fitness Centre, in North Andover, and prepares clothes for sale at Goodwill Industries store in Lawrence. She has worked for Goodwill for nine years, "with no sickdays," she says with pride.

Ms. Silverman was born in Methuen, attended Boston School for the Deaf for help with her speech, and then West Elementary School and East Junior High School.

Depending on the season, she joins the Maher family to cook spaghetti dinners at their home on Prides Circle, swim in the backyard pool, share a coffee at a downtown eatery, or shop for that special piece of costume jewelry she admires. Ms. Silverman says they used to frequent Fords restaurant, which, she says, had the best coffee in Andover. They take in ClownTown, savor cones at Treadwells Ice Cream stand in North Andover, cook out of doors and exchange humorous anecdotes.

"I like to tell jokes," says Peter, who explains Ms. Silverman is an enthusiastic audience for his jokes and shares his games.

According to Dorothy Hart, director of development of Fidelity House, the Connections program is designed to help developmentally-delayed adults weave into the fabric of the local community. She is encouraging other Andover residents to befriend these 18 individuals who live at the three Fidelity House residences in Andover. The commitment is only for an hour or two a month, on a one-to-one basis.

"We have a list of all the folks who are awaiting volunteers. I get a sense from the volunteers who they would like to spend time with, and I match them up with people who have similar interests," says Joyce Glen-Miller, the director of volunteers for Connections, 685-9471.

"I provide a couple of hours of training. I am planning to run a training session in the middle of October," she says.

"These are my friends. I like being with them," says Ms. Silverman, as she and the Mahers make plans for apple picking at Smolak Farm in North Andover and taking in the fall flea market circuit.

Out of the mouths of babes

"Ms. Moran," the child asked, "do you like kids?"

When Mary Moran, St. Augustine School's new principal, began to meet her charges this fall, a first-grader asked her the most important question of all: Do you like children?

That has to be the number-one criteria for entering the teaching profession. It's not a question that all teachers can answer in the affirmative. The first-grader at St. Augustine School had it right. If you like us, you will do your best to see that we get every opportunity possible to help us become contributing citizens.

Leave OJ out of the newspaper?

The charge of this newspaper is to reflect the events in this community.

So it would be possible for the Andover Townsman to be published this week with no mention at all of the O.J. Simpson not-guilty verdict.

We could publish the press release we received from Jane Titus of the Women's Resource Center via fax no more than 15 minutes after the verdict was announced. She reminds the community that regardless of the verdict, Mr. Simpson is guilty of tormenting and battering his wife during their stormy marriage. That point, somehow, was lost during the trial.

Also lost while the country crowded around television sets Tuesday is the notion that the trial of a celebrity has consumed the attention, energy and vast sums of money of the public for months.

The fact remains that Nicole Brown Simpson, 35, and her friend Ronald Goldman, 25, were slain June 12, 1994, a fact almost lost in the bright TV lights and celebrity worshiping. The whole story feels shameful, in the amount of attention, time and space it consumed. Somehow we've done this to ourselves.

Who is this beggar who's in my face?

By Perry Colmore

Maybe I've seen the Messiah. I don't know. But whoever it is, I can't get him out of my mind.

Recently, my husband and I were in a Boston coffee house, sitting on stools by the window. My seat in the Beacon Street establishment gave me an eye-to-eye view of a fat man on the corner of the street. He was sitting on a motorized scooter, cup out with some change and a few dollar bills in it, and holding a sign written in childish writing on cardboard. It said something like this: "Please help. My wife recently died. Desperate. No place to go."

He was dirty. He was obese. He was unshaven. His clothes were torn. He had thick glasses and he wore a dirty baseball cap.

I tried not to notice him. I looked away. But he was, as they say, in my face. I couldn't avoid him.

Finally I decided I was supposed to notice him. I decided to look him in the eye. He looked right back. He didn't look angry, or sad, or well, anything really. He was just there. And I was meant to notice him.

My husband and I had just finished the American Cancer Society's five-mile walk in Boston: Making Strides Against Breast Cancer. I'd done my good deed for the day. Why was this man intruding in my space? Where had he come from?

Usually I don't give money to street people. I'm too controlling. I'm afraid they'll use it to buy another drink. I give to the United Way and a few other favorite charities. I rationalize that a man like this might be helped indirectly by those donations.

Something seemed different the day I saw the man on the scooter in Boston. "I don't care if this guy uses my money to buy a drink," I said to my husband as we prepared to leave. "I'm going to give him five bucks. Maybe a drink will make him happy for a few minutes. Maybe he won't use it to buy booze. I just feel like giving him some money."

We went outside and I stuffed my $5 bill into his cup, avoiding eye contact and not having the nerve to talk with him. He immediately looked in the cup to see how much I'd given him. I think he said thank-you, although I'm not sure.

That was it, until a week later, when we were getting ready to go to church and I heard on the radio a bit of a sermon from St. Paul's Cathedral in Boston. The sermon, based on the day's Gospel reading (Luke 16:19-31), was about a rich man who had everything, and a disgusting beggar, Lazarus, who had sores that dogs licked, no money and many needs. You know the story. Lazarus and the rich man die; the former goes to heaven, the latter, to hell. Lazarus, you see, didn't have much of anything he needed while he was alive. The rich man, on the other hand, had everything and didn't share it.

At church in Andover, the Gospel was the same as the one I'd heard earlier on the radio, and the sermon was built around the story of Lazarus and the rich man. The Boston beggar's face immediately flashed into my mind's eye. There he was, back in my face, refusing to go away.

"I wish we'd talked with that beggar in Boston when I gave him the money," I said to my husband after church. "In fact, I wish I'd offered to take him to lunch. Then I would have had to talk with him, and also I would be sure he had at least one good meal."

Then I realized, "I could also tell him I was using him, by writing a column about him."

David Cobb is indicted

pending trial, but Lincoln Soldati, the Stratford County attorney prosecuting the case, would not reveal his plans in that regard.

"I will be seeking the bail that I think is appropriate," Mr. Soldati said Tuesday.

Mr. Soldati said the superior court charges supersede the district court charges, and that a probable cause hearing on the district court charges scheduled for tomorrow, Friday, was canceled.

David Cobb

Attempted sexual assault

The attempted felonious sexual assault charge alleges Mr. Cobb on Aug. 22 in Farmington, N.H., attempted to lure a 12-year-old boy to a secluded area by offering the boy $20 to help change the swimsuits of retarded children. It also alleges that he represented himself as a camp counselor for a camp for retarded children, but that both the camp and the children were fictitious. And it alleges that "such actions (were) intended by David Cobb to entice the boy to go with him for the purpose of engaging in sexual contact."

Felonious sexual assault only applies to children under 13 years old, according to Mr. Soldati. It is a class-B felony punishable by a maximum of 3½ to 7 years in state prison.

Mr. Cobb, 59, a Phillips Academy English teacher, was arrested in Farmington, N.H., on Aug. 23, one day after he was stopped by Farmington police detectives as he crossed a street in Farmington with a 12-year-old boy. Farmington police had received a report that a man had tried to lure two 14-year-olds into his car a day earlier in Farmington, and the detectives recognized Mr. Cobb as fitting the description given by the two teens.

When he was stopped, Mr. Cobb allegedly had pornographic photographs with him in a backpack, and the 12-year-old told a similar story to that of the 14-year-olds, of being offered money, to help dress and undress retarded campers.

The backpack also allegedly contained a hand-written "pay scale for helping pumpkin," which listed various touching and modeling activities and amounts to be paid to those partaking in them.

Mr. Cobb has since been fired by PA.

Porn charges

Of the pornography charges, 191 are felony child pornography charges and 404 are misdemeanor child pornography charges.

The 191 felony charges allege Mr. Cobb exhibited or otherwise made available pictures of a child engaged in sexual activity. Police allege he showed them or made them available to a 13-year-old Rochester, N.H., boy on Aug. 17 in a Rochester park, six days prior to his arrest in Farmington.

In that incident, a Rochester mother allegedly related to police that her son told her "that he was paid money to rub lotion on the pumpkin man," according to court documents. The boy described the man and said he was shown pictures, of naked children and adults, taken from a backpack.

Mr. Soldati said the felony charge relates to the children who are the subjects in the photos, and not who Mr. Cobb was allegedly showing them to.

"Who he showed it to is immaterial," Mr. Soldati said.

The Rochester incident was reported to Rochester police on Aug. 23, according to court documents, the same day Mr. Cobb was arrested in Farmington.

The 404 misdemeanor child pornography charges allege that Mr. Cobb simply possessed that number of child pornography items, some of which are the same photos that are the subject of the felony charges, when he was stopped in Farmington on Aug. 22.

Cobb's daughter slams PA

By Don Staruk

Tiffany Cobb, David O. Cobb's daughter, slammed Phillips Academy in a letter to the school's student newspaper last week for PA's treatment of her father since his arrest in New Hampshire in August.

In the Sept. 29 issue of The Phillipian, Ms. Cobb, 31, a 1983 PA graduate, called the school's firing of her father and its treatment of her mother and father vindictive and offensive.

"I am ashamed of my school and this place I came to call home for its precipitous abandonment of loyalty, due process, fairness and many other humanistic values it instilled in me as a student. What hypocrisy. And what a cruel and thankless way to treat a long-esteemed, valuable member of the Andover community and his family," she wrote.

"I was raised in a prep-school environment where as a toddler and elementary school-aged child I was babysat by seniors, sat on my father's shoulders at pep rallies and licked lollipops at Dickie's (PA receptionist Dickie Thiras) desk," Ms. Cobb wrote.

She said she came to feel the faculty members were her aunts and uncles, "people you see once in a while, some perhaps on special occasions, some more regularly than others, and when you do see them there's an understood, unspoken closeness, a feeling that no matter what, they'd do anything for you."

"Andover was my family," she wrote. "My father's termination has been a blow not only to him, but also to my mother and me. This is our home."

She wrote of growing up on the PA campus, and about the countless hours of their own time her parents gave in service to the school. Her mother, Sumida Cobb, who is originally from Thailand, "had foreign students come to our home for dinner, took them shopping for clothing necessities and school supplies, and stopped by to visit them in their dorms, just so they wouldn't feel quite so homesick. We had a foreign faculty member join us for several Thanksgivings so that she'd have a home to go to. My mother simply wanted to do these things. Hospitality is a very Thai trait and Mom put it to good use in her 27 years at Andover."

"I think what Dad accomplished in his years at Andover speaks for itself," she said.

She wrote of the constant flow of notes on their kitchen table from grateful alumni who would never forget her father, or a faculty member who needed a favor or advice for which her father would eagerly volunteer, or from a thankful parent.

"He put the school before his own life. The school was Dad's family - and at times, even more than his wife and daughter were."

"Somehow with Dad's firing, everything he ever worked for, every paper he ever corrected, every meeting he ever led, has all been negated. I know I speak for my parents too when I say that I'm deeply offended by what has happened. Surely this blow could have been softer. Perhaps with a quick phone call to ask for his resignation? That would have been the most gracious solution for all of us. How sad that that he was never even given the chance."

Tiffany Cobb, from 1982-'83 Phillips Academy address book.

"I'll never forget Sept. 1 at 2:45 p.m. - nearly four hours after the announcement of my father's firing was distributed - when the phone rang. I answered, and there was Dad's quiet voice at the other end reading the headline in the paper to me: 'Prep school teacher fired.'"

Ms. Cobb said she had just learned of the firing from a friend. Her mother learned about it from an acquaintance in New Hampshire.

"I don't much care if people tried to contact my husband, my mother or me by phone. After devoting his life to that school, my father should have been notified of this first and in person - not last and through the newspaper."

"As far back as I can remember, Andover's dismissal policy for students has been a face-to-face meeting with head of school. That a faculty member can be summarily fired in such a remote and impersonal manner and then read the news in a newspaper suggests not only that faculty are less important than students; it also substitutes for humanity and compassion what looks like a vindictive contempt unprecedented in our long affiliation with Andover."

Ms. Cobb wrote that she'd dreamed of her father's retirement party with fireworks, and "maybe a bonfire and a huge gathering of all my 'aunts' and 'uncles' in that special community."

"Instead I'm now reading their notes of condolence and sorrow, as though Dad passed away."

She said the most recent insult was her receiving a letter sent to all alumni summarizing the allegations against her father, and inviting her to provide additional "relevant information" against him.

Ms. Cobb railed against the school's reprinting of press reports quoting anonymous sources on unspecified allegations against her father for past misconduct involving PA students.

"My father hasn't been charged with or even accused, first hand, of any incident involving PA students, past or present."

She questioned how that letter to "thousands of school alumni, including my father's former students," would be taken back when a completed investigation confirms that there is no evidence of wrongdoing at the school.

"Particularly difficult to understand is the administration's vindictiveness against my mother. Although the school has modified its initial demand that she vacate the premises within 30 days, my father has been banned from appearing on any part of the campus and thereby forbidden to help my mother pack up and move 27 years of possessions distributed throughout a large house. This is an overwhelming task for anyone unassisted, and a heartless and unnecessary punishment directed against a woman who has selflessly served the school for a long time."

PA reaction to letter

Theresa Pease, spokesperson for PA on the David Cobb situation, said Wednesday morning that the only point in Ms. Cobb's letter that she wanted to respond to is the part about her father learning about his firing from the newspapers.

"We only had contact with her dad through his attorneys at that point," Ms. Pease said.

His attorneys were notified early that morning that Mr. Cobb was to be fired, and PA officials were planning to call Mr. Cobb to notify him, but were instructed by his attorneys not to contact him, she said.

"And that's why he did not learn it directly from us," Ms. Pease said. "Clearly it's a very difficult time for the Cobb family."

Mary Moran

"I don't think there is a trade off. I really don't believe that," she said. "I don't see it as replacing, I see it as enhancing. That may be semantics, but I think that's the case."

"I think more and more kids need something to believe in. They see less and less of what is good in the world. It doesn't mean the good's not happening, it's just not getting the press."

Ms. Moran said she believes everyone - students, parents and area businesses - own and are responsible for education. When she worked in Lewiston, she said her school worked closely with a hospital there and she hopes to form a similar business partnership at St. Augustine.

Ms. Moran left Lewiston because her day had become too routine, she said.

"It was awfully comfortable going to school every day and I thought a new set of eyes and a new set of ears would be (helpful) to take it into the next millennium. And maybe that's why I'm here."

"But how is she doing, learning the children's names?"

"Actually I'm doing pretty well. There are some clues: One girl wears the same necklace every day," she said. Knowing each child's name "is real important to children. I think that gets lost sometimes in the numbers and statistics."

Andover High's contingency fund

he said.

Here are how some of the numbers break down, according to the Sept. 18 report:

- After the project was awarded to Stone-Congress, the High School contractor, the contingency fund totaled approximately $1,732,000.

- Potentially, under the worst possible conditions, $1,603,007 has been spent, although the town has only committed to spending about $909,000 so far.

- The architects and project manager are still reviewing $414,137 of the potential costs, to determine if these costs are valid. Most of these are requests submitted by Stone-Congress.

- Another $149,110 in requests from Stone Congress have been submitted and rejected by the architects and project manager, but Stone-Congress has not yet agreed to these dismissals. This approximately $149,000 is still included in the $1.6 million the town may owe.

- Since the previous report, there was a decrease of about $516,000 in the contingency fund. Workers dipped into the account for $165,000 just to have the school ready for its delayed opening Sept. 12.

Garlic and intimacy down Andover way

The words garlic and intimacy are usually thought to be mutually exclusive, but those are the two that most readily come to mind when one thinks of Pasta Villagio. The intimacy is in the layout: Pasta Villagio's tables are close together, yet somehow you never seem crowded, nor is it noisy. It is white paper tablecloths, family-friendly, cups of crayons, an invitation to draw or doodle.

Pasta Villagio serves its main-dish pasta meals in huge white bowls about twice the size of the portion, and the result is visually appealing as well as easier to eat.

Eighteen Elm Street has a new owner

Eighteen Elm Street restaurant has been sold and the Board of Selectmen Monday night approved the transfer of its alcohol license to the new restaurant, Palmer's Restaurant and Tavern.

The board also approved a common victualer license to the new restaurant's owner, John P. Ingalls III of Swampscott.

Mr. Ingalls, an executive chef with 20 years experience in the restaurant business, also owns and operates Palmer's Restaurant in Swampscott. He is the designated manager for the new restaurant. He plans to open the new restaurant in November after a short shutdown for renovations.

Eighteen Elm Street was owned by Franz Berkhout and operated by Alicia Parsons.

Ms. Parsons opened the restaurant in November of 1991. Prior to that it was Rembrandt's restaurant, also owned by Mr. Berkhout.

TIP to hold another training session

The Trauma Intervention Program of Merrimack Valley will hold training beginning Thursday, Oct. 26, at 6 p.m. Volunteers are trained to provide on-scene emotional and practical support to trauma victims in the Merrimack Valley. The group is in its second year of service and the first on the East Coast. Since TIP's inception, assistance has been provided to more than 550 citizens and emergency first responders, and more than 38,500 volunteer hours have contributed to the community. Volunteers have responded to a variety of tragic situations to support victims and witnesses, such as sudden death of a loved one, fire victims, domestic violence, suicide, AIDS, elders and children in need and drownings. The likelihood of developing emotional scars are minimized if the victim receives the necessary support and referral immediately after a tragedy. Pre-registration is required through Jayan Conlin, executive director. Write to TIP, P.O. Box 5081, Andover, Mass. 01810, or call the TIP line at (508) 474-8923.

How French government hurt us

KEN JOHNSON Hitting Home

Bull HN Information Systems' closing of its Lawrence manufacturing plant follows the sale earlier this year to Wang of the company's services business.

What happened to the once-mighty company that was the state's third largest computer maker, employing over 1,000 people in Lawrence alone?

It was caught off-guard by market forces and hampered in its ability to respond to change by that peculiar brand of economics that is French socialism.

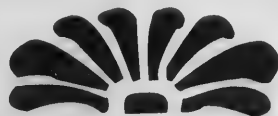

"They got caught in the same trap that a lot of other manufacturers got caught in," said Scott McCready, who follows the computer industry for International Data Group in Framingham.

"They (Bull Information Systems) are a lesson in what happens when governments try to legislate high technology. Other people unfortunately become victims as well, such as the people of Lawrence."

Townsmen to give Community Spirit Award

The Townsmen is looking for nominations for its first Community Spirit Award, to be given at the first of the year to an organization or individual who has done something extraordinary for the town or for individuals in town.

The newspaper is asking groups or individuals to nominate people or organizations for the award. A panel of five community people (to be chosen) will make the award decision.

Making the award will be a good way for the community to recognize individuals and groups that reach out to different groups or people in town. To be eligible, the organization, the service delivered, or the individual has to be Andover-based.

Examples of appropriate nominations would be a school grade that has "adopted" a needy person; a business that drives people to medical appointments; and a group that raised the cash to buy a wheelchair for an individual.

Please write the nomination in one page or less. Include your name and phone number.

All the nominees will be included in the newspaper's story about the award.

Nominations are due Friday, Dec. 8, at 5 p.m. Questions? Call Editor Perry Colmore at 508-475-1943. If you would like to fax your nomination, send it to 508-470-2819. ## AHS SPORTS

Women's soccer trounces Waltham and Billerica

By Rick Harrison
and Alix Driscoll

Jenn Munroe, Missy Famiglietti and Vanessa Blank scored three impressive goals to beat Greater Boston League power Waltham 3-1 in the Tuesday evening game under the lights at Lovely Field.

The undefeated Andover women's varsity soccer team dominated this game as they have dominated the games all season. They compiled a remarkable overall 8-0-0 and reign in the Merrimack Valley Conference. Waltham went into the game with a 6-1-0 record.

According to Jim Hurley, the schools athletic director, it is a sure bet Andover will compete in the state championship. The only question for him is whether AHS will earn first seed to give it a bye for the first round.

For those keeping score, Dick Loschi, the women's varsity soccer coach, is fast approaching his 150th career win.

"Although I don't really keep track, if we win tonight's (Waltham) game it will be 147 for me," said Mr. Loschi at halftime.

He now has three wins to go.

Billerica game

Sue Cookson scored twice in the second half, while Jen Murnane and Jenn Munroe added single goals and Meghan Lynch was again perfect in net, as the Andover High women's varsity soccer team took a gigantic step towards another Merrimack Valley Conference championship by whitewashing arch-rival and primary challenger Billerica 4-0 in the first of their two showdown games last Saturday night under the lights at Lovely Field.

A bi-partisan crowd of several hundred fans viewed the game in crisp fall weather.

The Lady Warriors' possible school-record sixth straight shutout one point ahead of previously-unbeaten Billerica which slipped to 6-1-1. Andover also has a game in hand.

The monumental triumph, along with an earlier 2-0 win over Methuen, stretched Andover's shutout string to six games and 548 consecutive minutes.

Coach Dick Loschi's crew stepped out of league play for the first time this season when it hosted Andover was scheduled to play at Dracut today, and this Saturday night could provide a preview of the Eastern Mass. Division 1 Tournament championship game when undefeated Middlesex League power Winchester (9-0-0) invades Lovely Field for a 7 p.m. clash.

"To be the best you have to beat the best," explained coach Loschi.

Scoring leaders

After seven games Jenn Munroe paced the point parade with 13 goals and four assists.

Sue Cookson had seven goals and five assists, Jen Murnane six goals and four assists, and Vanessa Blank five goals, three assists.

Andover 4 Billerica 0

The Lady Warriors broke open a scoreless struggle with four goals in the second half.

"This was our toughest test so far, and we responded with a strong game both ways," said coach Loschi.

Captain Meghan Lynch earned her third solo shutout in net, and the team's sixth straight, by making eight saves including a pair that Loschi termed "dazzling."

"Early in the game Meghan out-raced one of their forwards to the ball and covered it, and late in the game she preserved the shutout by diving across the goal and tipping a hard shot wide of the net," said coach Loschi.

Andover also completely shut down the Indians' prolific first line of Wendy Boudreau, Tina Carrabba and Jackie MacLean who had combined for over 30 goals and 80 points in Billerica's first seven games.

"Our defense reacted to the ball well, attacked their forwards aggressively, and didn't allow anything cheap to happen," said coach Loschi.

Leading the stop squad were senior defenders Susan Ashlock

Men's soccer loses to Lowell; but dominates MVC play

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High men's varsity soccer team lost its undefeated status, but took over first place in the Merrimack Valley Conference, with a 3-1 victory over Tewksbury and 3-2 triumph against Billerica offsetting a 2-1 loss to Lowell.

Those results left the Golden Warriors at 6-1-2 overall, including 5-1-1 in league play, as the Andover Invitational Tournament champs emerged from Monday's action with a one point lead over Central Catholic (4-1-2) and a two-point advantage over Lowell, Dracut, Methuen and Tewksbury. Andover begins the second half of the season when it plays at Methuen tonight (7:00).

Coach Dave Amundsen's Warriors host Chelmsford on Saturday evening (5:00), and face Central Catholic next Wednesday afternoon at Merrimack College (3:30).

Scoring leaders

Top scorers through the first nine games are Eric Dubasak, with five goals and four assists, Shaun Rodriguez (three goals, five assists), Ryan Hadley (five goals, one assist) and Matt Yost (four goals, two assists).

Andover 3 Billerica 2

The Golden Warriors rolled out to a commanding 3-0 halftime lead, and then hung tough as Billerica (3-5-0) mounted a second-half comeback under the lights at Lovely Field on Monday night.

Eric Dubasak got AHS off and running with his fifth goal at 21:28 of the first half, junior forward Tim Smith picking up the locals' lone assist of the game.

Less than three minutes later Smith scored his second goal of the season, unassisted, to make it 2-0.

Senior forward Matt McCarthy notched what proved to be the game-winner with 15 seconds left in the half, stealing the ball from a Billerica defender out front and blasting a quick shot over goalkeeper Chris Cowan's head.

Billerica fought back in the final 40 minutes, as Cowan played spectacularly and the Indians received goals from Tom Blesso at 8:20 and Scott Yavarow with 3:40 remaining.

Mike Scarpula, who played the second half in the AHS net, made a clutch save on a penalty shot with 10 minutes left when the score was 3-1.

Scarpula and first-half keeper Zach Smith finished with three saves, while Cowan made 16 stops, as the Golden Warriors outshot Billerica by a wide 19-5 margin.

"We just let down in the second half," said coach Amundsen. "We didn't pass well and we weren't as aggressive as we'd been in the first half."

Andover 3 Tewksbury 1

The host Redmen controlled the action for the first 30 minutes, holding a wide territorial edge, but strong play by AHS senior goalkeeper Zach Smith kept the game scoreless.

"Tewksbury is another tough team that always gives us problems," said coach Amundsen. "They had us back on our heels at the start. I think we were inside their 18-yard line only four or five times in the first half."

"But our first goal took the starch out of them, and then we dominated most of the second half."

Senior forward Eric Dubasak's fourth goal, with three minutes left in the half, put the Golden Warriors ahead to stay. Matt Yost earned his first of two assists as Dubasak scored from a goalmouth scramble.

Senior midfielder John Kulp made it 2-0 midway through the second half with an unassisted goal, dribbling across in front and blasting home an 18-yard shot.

Senior middle Brian Kwon's second goal of the season provided the insurance just two minutes later, Yost sending him down the weak side wing with a set-up pass.

The Redmen (3-3-1 overall) spoiled the shutout bid with about 10 minutes left.

Smith played the first 60 minutes and senior Mike Scarpula the last 20 in the AHS net, the pair combining for 11 saves. The final shots were even, 12-12. Coach Amundsen cited the solid play of Captain Ryan Hadley, who anchored the defense along with Roger Foltz and Eric Bourassa.

Foltz and Peter Ellis were recently elevated to the varsity to compensate for the loss of Adam Westaway, whose leg injury is expected to keep him sidelined until next week.

Lowell 2 Andover 1

Arch-rival Lowell, which has battled the Golden Warriors for league Large School supremacy the past several years, knocked AHS from the unbeaten ranks by earning a hard-fought victory under the lights at Lovely Field.

The visitors scored early in the first half, but AHS senior midfielder John Kulp tied it 1-1 four minutes before the break.

Senior center-midfielder and Captain Shaun Rodriguez picked up his fifth assist of the season on Kulp's first goal.

Swimmers lose to Haverhill; splash by Reading

By Rick Harrison

Several strong individual performances were not good enough to carry the Andover High women's swim team past Haverhill, as the Lady Warriors fell from the ranks of the unbeaten with a 112-74 Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet loss to host Haverhill.

The setback left Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald's squad at 3-1-0 overall, including 2-1-0 in league meets.

Andover returned to the water today with its first-ever confrontation with undefeated (3-0-0) perennial state champion (10 titles last 14 years) Acton-Boxboro.

"Although it would take an incredible effort to beat them, hopefully we can use this meet to nail down a number of North Sectional and State Meet qualifying times," said coach Fitzgerald.

AHS also hosts MVC rival Dracut tomorrow afternoon at the Greater Lawrence Tech pool (3:30).

HAVERHILL 112, ANDOVER 74

The Lady Warriors placed first in six of the 12 events but couldn't match the Hillies' overall depth.

Sophomore Jenna Blongiewicz was a double individual winner in the 50-yard freestyle (25.90) and 100 free (55.88), with both times good enough to qualify for states.

Freshman Becky Ambro remained undefeated in the 1-meter diving, and qualified for the State Meet with a winning 193.00 point total. Sophomore Brenna O'Connor qualified for states with a second-place 2:26.09 effort in the 200 individual medley, and junior Meghan Donahue earned a berth in the Sectional Championships with a personal-best 2:31.34 for fourth place in the 200 IM.

Junior diver Nicole Carpentier closed within one top performance of qualifying for states when she scored 165.60 points for second place. Donahue finished first in the 100 butterfly (1:06.59), and Capt. Diana Liberty added a first place in the 200 free (2:02.60) and rare second (to Haverhill's Kristen Latourelle) in the 500 free (5:19.18). Latourelle touched in 5:16.25.

"Kristen has been swimming all year and turned in a fantastic performance," admitted Coach Fitzgerald. "But I believe Diana is on track to regain her state title in the 500 (champ in 1993)."

Also recording personal-best times for Andover were rapidly-improving sophomore Kailey Thomas, in both the 200 free (2:13.88) and 500 free (5:53.34), freshman Rachel Cohen in the 100 free (1:03.37), O'Connor in the 500 free (5:34.61), junior Lisa Jayne (1:11.32) and senior Erin Rogacki (1:12.13) in the 100 backstroke, junior Caitlin Fitzpatrick in the 100 breaststroke (1:21.94), and the 400 free relay quartet of Liberty, Donahue, O'Connor and Blongiewicz (3:56.23).

ANDOVER 103, NOTRE DAME ACADEMY 74

The Lady Warriors placed first in nine of the 12 events, with junior Lisa Jayne's double victory in the 100-yard butterfly (1:13.49) and 200 freestyle (2:18.18) leading the way at the Greater Lawrence Tech pool.

Other individual winners for Andover were sophomore Kailey Thomas (200 IM, 2:44.43), junior Caitlin Fitzpatrick (50 free, 29.97), freshman Pam Muller (100 free, 1:09.61), senior Michelle Vitale (500 free, 6:23.33), sophomore Brenna O'Connor (100 backstroke, 1:08.86) and freshman Melissa Osborne (100 breaststroke, 1:20.60).

The 200 medley relay quartet of freshman Meghan Twohig, junior Hilary Winters, junior Jen Paul and freshman Stephanie Manners also topped first (2:20.67).

O'Connor nailed a second in the 100 fly (1:44.1) for AHS, which rested top guns Diana Liberty, Jenna Blongiewicz and Meghan Donahue.

Volleyball smashes Tewksbury and Boston Latin

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High women's varsity volleyball team improved its record to 5-4, including 4-4 in the Merrimack Valley Conference, with a 2-0 sweep of Tewksbury and a 2-1 triumph over non-league Boston Latin of the Dual County League.

There was also a 2-0 loss to Haverhill on Monday afternoon.

Coach George Sullivan's squad returns to non-league action tomorrow evening at Bishop Fenwick in Peabody (5:30 p.m.), and plays three matches in four days next week against Boston Latin (Tuesday), Methuen (Wednesday) and Lowell (Friday).

"We anticipate being able to play Latin and Methuen at Merrimack College, which will be considered our home court," said coach Sullivan. "We're also trying to get at least one match at the end of the season at our own (Andover High) gym. The seniors deserve to have at least one match at Andover."

The volleyball team is the only AHS athletic squad unable to play at home this fall because of the on-going construction at the high school.

Andover 2 Boston Latin 1

The Lady Warriors came out firing on all cylinders, winning the first game 15-7, before the Wolfpack (6-3) reversed the momentum and took a 9-0 lead in game two en route to a 15-11 victory.

"We were digging and passing well in the opening game," said coach Sullivan. "In the second game, you name it and we did it wrong."

That brought it all down to a third game, and once again Andover took control and raced to a thoroughly-convincing 15-2 victory.

"In the third game we went back to our 5-1 setup and everyone felt much more comfortable," explained coach Sullivan. "We tried to do a few different things earlier in the match, moving people around to different positions. But once we got back in the 5-1 we blew right through them."

Junior middle hitter Kristen Wysocki had another big match with eight kills and nine service points, senior outside hitter Andrea Marvin added three kills and served extremely well, senior Captain Allyson Ahern contributed five kills early and was the top setter in the final game.

Playing strong back-row defense were Cara Rossini and Anne Marie Poane.

Stephanie Brown, who had missed the previous match (Tewksbury) with strep throat, did an excellent job hitting in the third game.

Andover 2 Tewksbury 0

Kristen Wysocki, Andrea Marvin and Allyson Ahern sparked the Lady Warriors to an easy 15-7, 15-9 sweep.

"We weren't in perfect sync, but everyone played and we were able to do a little experimenting," said coach Sullivan. "We jumped out to big early leads in both games, and then tried a few people at different positions."

Wysocki finished the match with eight kills, Marvin scored nine points on her serve and had two kills, and Ahern shifted from setter to hitter and did some hard spiking at the net.

Andover led 12-2 at one juncture in the second game before coasting to the victory.

Junior six-foot middle-hitter Stephanie Brown sat out the match with strepped throat.

Haverhill 2 Andover 0

The Hillies (4-4) prevailed by 15-13 and 15-9 scores, building an 11-3 lead in the second game and then repulsing a late AHS rally.

"At times we played as well as we have all season, with some excellent second and third efforts, but overall we didn't take it to Haverhill enough," said coach Sullivan.

"We're not playing as tough as we should. We gave them five or six quick points in both games before we woke up. We're beating ourselves with our inconsistency."

Kristen Wysocki finished with five kills, Stephanie Brown did a solid job hitting and blocking, Andrea Marvin hit well and Allyson Ahern was strong defensively.

Chelmsford 2 Andover 0

The undefeated defending Division 1 North champions (7-0) slipped past Andover by 15-10 and 15-13 scores.

"We were lethargic at times and inconsissistent," said coach Sullivan. "We had a great practice on Saturday, but didn't get it done on Monday."

"Nine errors in the first game killed us. Our serving was atrocious. We kept banging the ball into the net or out of bounds. You can't do that against a team like Chelmsford."

"But they're definitely beatable," added Sullivan, "and we'll get another crack at them (Oct. 20)."

The Lady Warriors led Chelmsford, which hasn't lost a game this season, 13-11 in the second game before the Lions rallied to score the last four points.

Sparking the AHS effort were Kristen Wysocki (5 kills), Stephanie Brown (4 kills) and Andrea Marvin (hitting).

Methuen 2 Andover 1

The three-hour marathon match went down to the bitter end before the host Rangers pulled it out with a come-from-behind 15-13 victory in game three.

Methuen also rolled in the opening game, 15-8, before Andover rallied to square the match with a 16-14 overtime win.

Senior outside hitter Andrea Marvin played a superb all-around match with 10-of-13 serving, a perfect 17-for-17 hitting, six kills and 13 defensive digs.

"Andrea played her heart out," said coach Sullivan. "She was all over the court, diving on the floor and banging the ball hard. She also finished 18-for-22 in serve-receive."

Football loses to Tewksbury; plays home tomorrow

By Rick Harrison

A second-half charge to rival the best put on by any Andover High football team in recent years fell just short, as the Golden Warriors dropped a wild 34-22 Merrimack Valley Conference decision to host Tewksbury last Saturday at sun-baked Doucette Field.

After falling behind 28-0 at the half, Andover rallied to trail only 28-22 with six minutes left in the game.

But the undefeated Redmen (3-0-0) were able to regroup and mount a nine-play drive for the insurance TD.

The loss dropped Head Coach Dick Collins' crew to 1-2-0 overall, including 1-1-0 in league play, as they prepare to host Methuen (1-2-0) tomorrow night in the first home game of the season. Kickoff under the lights at Lovely Field is 7 p.m.

The first half of the Tewksbury game was a 20-minute nightmare for the locals.

The Redmen scored on each of their four possessions, piling up 254 yards total offense while holding Andover to minus one yard rushing and 51 yards overall.

"That's as outstanding a first half as anyone has played against in a long time," admitted coach Collins. "They were almost flawless."

"We may have come into the game thinking after we beat Lowell (14-13) that it was going to be easy. We may not have been as respectful of Tewksbury's speed and quickness as we should have been."

"(Ben) Christopher is a terrific football player and their quarterback (Mike Torode) is very good."

No major adjustments

"We didn't make any major adjustments or do anything differently in the second half," said coach Collins. "We thought we could run right at them, inside tackle to tackle, but when they stopped us on our first two series we had to revise our game plan and do more throwing than we would have liked."

Tisbert finished the game 8-for-18 through the air, for 137 yards, with the big strike a 74-yard touchdown pass to junior tight end Matt Muench.

Dana McCann attempted one halfback option pass that fell incomplete.

"I was very pleased with our second half," said Collins. "They won the first half and we won the second. The only difference was Tewksbury was able to pick it back up again at the end. If we had stopped them on their final drive I think we would have come all the way back to win the game."

Defensively, although it was far from a gem, the Golden Warriors did get strong performances from end Mike Shaughnessy, linebacker McCann and Tisbert in the secondary. All finished the game in double figures in tackles.

Sophomore defensive back Joe Maglio had a pass interception, Andover recovered two fumbles, and linemen Brian Cronin, Jason Dalton and Andy Lynch played tough inside.

Impressive comeback

The Golden Warriors' second-half comeback began with a fumble recovery at the Redmen 24 on the third play of the third quarter.

Two Dana McCann runs went for eight yards, Tewksbury helped out with an offside penalty, Shaughnessy clicked off three yards, and Tisbert scored his second TD of the season on an eight yard keeper to the left side. Tisbert had a rare miss on the attempted conversion kick, the ball sailing wide right to keep the score at 28-6.

Two plays after the kickoff, AHS recovered a second Tewksbury fumble at the Redmen 10, but the locals squandered this opportunity by fumbling right back on the next play. The second touchdown came on the final play of the third quarter, when Tisbert zipped a 14-yard left-sideline pass to Matt Muench who galloped the remaining 60 yards to complete an electrifying 74-yard TD play.

Tisbert also hit a wide-open McCann in the right front corner of the end zone for the two-point conversion which trimmed the deficit to 28-14.

Joe Maglio's interception followed, on the third play of the fourth period, and once again Andover was in business at the Tewksbury 31.

Ryan Games gained seven yards on a pitchout to the right side, and two plays later McCann followed the blocking of Brian Cronin up the middle for a first down at the 20. After a Tisbert pass in the left flat was dropped by the intended receiver, the talented junior quarterback raced 19 yards to the Redmen one.

McCann plunged over on the next play for his first TD of the season, and Tisbert fired the two-point pass to Jack Glazebrook in the right rear corner of the end zone to make it 28-22 with 6:08 to play.

Tewksbury, reeling from the AHS onslaught, appeared to catch its second wind when Jason Dalton went down with heat-induced cramps and play was halted for about five minutes.

When action resumed, Torode marched the winners 76 yards in nine plays for the touchdown with 1:50 remaining. There were two big pass completions to Christopher, for eight and 17 yards, and then Torode used Christopher as a decoy before bootlegging right for a 32-yard TD run. Andover's last flicker was doused when Torode intercepted Tisbert with 57 seconds to play. Tisbert had 28 yards rushing and McCann 27, Erik DeMarco was the top AHS pass receiver with three catches for 30 yards, and Tisbert had a fine game punting with a 38.7 yard average for three kicks.

Bob Lawson's golf team rules MVC play, 8-1-0

By Rick Harrison

Senior captain and three-time All-Conference selection Dave Shaffer won his 40th and 41st career matches for the Andover High golf team, as the Golden Warrior linksmen remained in control of first place but fell from the unbeaten ranks after splitting a pair of recent Merrimack Valley Conference matches.

Shaffer improved to 9-0-0 this fall, and 41-6-2 overall, as AHS trimmed second-place Methuen 8k to 3k before losing to previously-winless Haverhill 6k to 5k in matches at Indian Ridge Country Club.

The loss to the Hillies snapped a 23-match unbeaten streak (22-0-1) stretching back to the final match of 1993.

Coach Bob Lawson's squad (8-1-0) was scheduled to play Central Catholic, at Hickory Hill, and Dracut, at Green Meadow in Hudson N.H., earlier this week.

The Golden Warriors also host Tewksbury tomorrow at Indian Ridge CC (3:30).
Top records

Shaffer and freshman Beth McCumber (7-0-0) boasted the top individual records after nine matches, while sophomore Rob Oppenheim was 8-1, senior Captain Jeff-Shea 7-1-1, junior Pat Annese 5-2-1, junior Ken Oppenheim 5-3-1 and junior Andy Mummy 4-3-1.

Andover 8k
Methuen 3k

Dave Shaffer was the medalist for the seventh time in eight matches, carding a three over par 38, and he edged Rangers' No. 1 Kevin O'Real 1-up as Methuen lost for just the second time this season.

Rob Oppenheim, playing No. 2, fired a 39 and beat defending MVC individual champion Jeff Briggs, 3-and-1.

Shaffer and Oppenheim were an uncatchable 4-under in the best ball to win that point easily, 3-and-2.

Other Andover victors were No. 4 Ken Oppenheim, who shot 39, No. 7 Chris Kearn with a 39 for his third consecutive win, and No. 8 Beth McCumber. (43).

Andy Mummy halved his match, and the locals finished with three of the four best ball points.

Jeff Shea, playing No. 3, suffered his first loss of the season.

Haverhill 6k
Andover 5k

The Golden Warriors juggled the bottom half of their lineup against the struggling Hillies, and the move cost Andover its perfect record.

Dave Shaffer was medalist for the eighth time with an even-par 36, and he won his match 2-up.

Rob Oppenheim carded a 38, romping to a 5-and-3 victory, and the Shaffer-Oppenheim duo captured their best ball point, 2-up.

Jeff Shea fired a 38 and won his match, 2-up, but things went downhill from there.

Junior Geoff Gresh was a winner at No. 5, and freshman Nick Branzetti halved his first varsity match.

But Haverhill won three of the final five matches, halved another, and captured each of the last three best ball points to register the upset.

Russo and Ying earn gold; teams rout Dracut in dual meet

By Rick Harrison

Charlie Russo and Melissa Ying were individual race winners for the Andover High men's and women's cross country teams. The AHS teams routed visiting Dracut 15-50 in Merrimack Valley Conference dual meets last week.

The men swept the top 11 places versus the Middies, while the women earned the top seven and eight of the first 10 spots.

Coach Leo Lafond's AHS women's squad remained undefeated at 3-0-0, leading the MVC, while the men squared their record at 2-2-0 overall.

The Warriors received a bye this week, and return to league competition next Wednesday with a tri-meet at Haverhill against Chelmsford and the host team (3:30).

This Saturday (9:30 a.m.) Andover will participate in the inaugural Tewksbury Coed Invitational Meet.

Andover men 15
Dracut 50

Senior Captain Charlie Russo posted his first individual victory of the season by covering Andover's home 3.1 mile course in 18:25.

Senior Leo Blais was the runner-up, 31 seconds behind in 18:56, and closely-bunched completing the top five were Matt Herling (3rd, 19:19), sophomore Todd Collins (4th, 19:24) and senior Tim Kearns (5th, 19:33).

Although they didn't figure in the scoring, following in order were senior Mark Langone (6th, 19:51), senior Captain Chris Mann (7th, 19:58), senior Dan Taylor (8th, 20:01), Chris Rillahan (9th, 20:08), Jeff DeAngelo (10th, 20:32) and senior Marc McGarry (11th, 20:46).

Junior Don Pattullo, one of the locals' best harriers, was sidelined with a cold.

Andover women 15
Dracut 50

Junior Melissa Ying also won her first race of the fall, leading the parade of Lady Warriors across the line in 23:03 for the 3.1 miles.

Sophomore Katherine Blais made it very interesting at the end, finishing a scant two seconds behind in 23:05.

Also scoring were junior Aligail Clarke (3rd, 23:26), freshman Kristen Munson (4th, 24:05) and sophomore Meghan Woo (5th, 24:59).

Completing the AHS runners in the top 10 were Janine Givens (6th, 25:24), junior Finnuala Kelleher (7th, 25:47) and senior Jen Schapira (9th, 26:01).

Field hockey smashes its scoring slump with 2-0 win over North Andover

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High varsity field hockey team broke out of its recent scoring slump with a 2-0 non-league victory over neighbor North Andover last Monday afternoon at the Scarlet Knights' field.

The triumph enabled Coach Sandy Lunt's squad to complete the first half of the season at 4-5-0 overall including 3-4-0 in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

The Lady Warriors' offense had been stuck in neutral during a recent three-game stretch, with AHS suffering consecutive shutout losses to league powerhouses Lawrence (1-0), Chelmsford (2-0) and Tyngsboro (1-0).

Andover has allowed only 12 goals in its first nine games (1.33 average), but the offense has only managed to score nine.

AHS is listed to play today at Haverhill, and next week has three games scheduled in four days against visiting non-league opponent Concord-Carlisle on Columbus Day (10 a.m.), Methuen (Tuesday) and at Tewksbury (Thursday).

Andover 2
North Andover 0

Senior goaltender Jamie Greene and sophomore Caroline Torrisi notched the team's third shutout of the season, combining for five saves, while the offense was provided by junior forwards Lindsay Corcoran and Michelle Empey.

Team-high scorer and Captain Stacy Kangisser, who now has five points, picked up her third and fourth assists of the season by setting up both goals.

Corcoran notched the game-winner, her first goal of the season, to end the drought and Empey added some insurance with her team-high third goal. Playing strong defensive games for the winners were junior midfielder Katie Brown and senior sweeper Captain Tamara Carroll.

and Christine Contos, along with sophomore Charlotte Muller.

Jen Murnane's sixth goal at 2:07 of the second half was the eventual game-winner, with Vanessa Blank notching the first of her two assists on the night.

Blank controlled the ball at midfield and laid a soft pass to Murnane cutting across in front of the Billerica net.

Sharpshooter Jenn Munroe converted a Blank feed at 5:32 for her 13th goal, doubling the lead to 2-0.

The first of stopper Sue Cookson's two insurance goals came at 19:14, as she headed in a Munroe corner kick.

Captain Cookson completed the scoring by blasting a direct kick just under the crossbar with about 10 minutes left.

Billerica had yielded only three goals in its previous seven games.

Andover 2 Methuen 0

The Lady Warriors' first game after a five-day layoff, and final tuneup prior to Billerica, was a tug-of-war against the host Rangers (3-3-3).

It marked the first time in six games the locals didn't pump home at least five goals.

Senior midfielder/stopper and Captain Sue Cookson's fifth goal of the season, unassisted at 12:30 of the first half, was all the offense the winners would need.

Sophomore forward Noelle Blank provided the insurance with her first goal at 6:56 of the second half, set-up to senior defender Susan Ashlock. Senior Captain Meghan Lynch made four saves en route to the shutout. Senior midfielder Liz Salvia contributed a strong performance, and the winners out-shot Methuen by a wide 20-4 margin as Rangers' keeper Sarah Riedel finished with 18 saves.

Andover 11 Tewksbury 0

Despite playing only 35 of the 80 minutes, Jenn Munroe pumped home six goals (including a penalty shot) which may be a single-game school record.

"It's the most in the 11 years I've been here, but I can't speak for what happened before that," said coach Loschi.

Jen Murnane added two goals and one assist, Liz Salvia two goals, and Sue Cookson one goal, three assists.

Senior forward Missy Famiglietti passed out two assists, while senior forwards Elaine Licata and Randi Spiegel distributed one each.

Meghan Lynch (three saves) and Jen Prudden (two saves) combined in net for the team's second straight shutout.

"It didn't matter who we put out there," said coach Loschi, whose team led 5-0 at the half and added six second-half goals. "The starters only played 35 minutes, but every bounce and every break went our way. Two of the goals deflected in off their players."

Andover 5 Chelmsford 0

Netting one goal each for the locals were Jenn Munroe, Sue Cookson, Missy Famiglietti, Jessica Smith and Vanessa Blank.

It was a 1-0 defensive struggle at the half, with Vanessa Blank's goal during the 36th minute breaking the scoreless deadlock.

Sophomore forward Noelle Blank and Munroe passed out the only two assists.

Meghan Lynch pushed aside seven Lions' shots to record the Lady Warriors' shutout. Coach Loschi lauded the play of midfielders Liz Salvia and Michelle Crispo, along with defenders Susan Ashlock and Charlotte Muller.

Owner/Director Judy Kilcoyne

Andover Massage Therapy, Inc.

Andover Massage Therapy, Inc. has "changed hands." The new Owner/Director is Judy Kilcoyne. Judy is dedicated to providing high quality therapeutic massage in a quiet, convenient and comfortable setting.

Massage therapy can provide anything from soothing relaxation to deeper therapy for specific problems. The goal of deep tissue or cross fiber massage is to break the pain-spasm cycle, decrease scar tissue and increase flexibility and range of motion. It also increases circulation which promotes the healing process.

By increasing circulation, massage helps release tension and pain in muscles. Low back, neck, shoulder pain and tension headaches are common problems addressed by massage therapy with positive results. Massage therapy can greatly reduce pain and aid in recovery if you suffer from other common problems that massage has helped, such as tendonitis, muscle soreness after exercise, Carpal Tunnel syndrome, sciatic-like pain, TMJ, and stress. Judy is trained, and especially interested, in the uncomfortable stresses associated with pregnancy, and will be certified in Pregnancy Massage this fall.

Judy is graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and the Bancroft School of Massage Therapy. She holds several certifications. Judy is a candidate for National Certification in Therapeutic Massage and Bodywork this fall. Other massage therapists work independently in the Andover Massage Therapy, Inc. office. All are carefully screened and hold national certification. They are Liz Anderson, Vivian Ytterhus and Ken St. Pierre. Appointments are available from early morning through the evening, six days a week.

Detailed brochures may be obtained either by calling or stopping by the office. Gift certificates are also available.

Andover Massage Therapy is located in Olde Andover Village at 93 Main Street. Convenient parking is available. For further information, please call (508) 474-4905.

New vision enhancement device aids patients

Tallman Eye Associates is pleased to announce that Kristin B. Tallman, O.D. has joined their team of professional eyecare specialists. In addition to practicing general optometry, she will be providing low-vision services.

Following graduation from Skidmore College, Dr. Tallman earned her doctorate of optometry degree from the New England School of Optometry in Boston. She completed internships in primary care optometry with emphasis in the field of low vision. During her residency at the Eastern Blind Rehabilitation Center, VAMC, in West Haven, Connecticut, she specialized in low vision/rehabilitative optometry.

While at the Eastern Blind Rehabilitation Center, Dr. Tallman was awarded a grant to study the effectiveness of a new low vision device, the Low Vision Enhancement System (LVES). This site was one of only six sites in this country selected to test and evaluate the LVES, which was invented at the John's Hopkins University School of Medicine in collaboration with NASA and the Department of Veteran's Affairs. It was developed to assist people with chronic vision problems that can not be corrected with ordinary prescription glasses, medications or surgery.

This system is composed of an adjustable headset with three miniaturized cameras mounted on it. Two of the cameras are used for orientation and the central zoom magnification camera allows the wearer to magnify objects from three to ten times. A control pack which operates the cameras is worn around the belt or shoulder and is about the size of a small book.

Although this device makes great strides in the field of low vision, Dr. Tallman stresses that it is still in its infancy and that the evaluation process has not yet been completed. In addition, it is not appropriate for everyone. The highest success rate with the LVES is found to be with patients who have reduced central vision. Eye diseases that can cause this are macular degeneration, inoperable cataracts, diabetic retinopathy and optic atrophy. This type of visual loss creates difficulty with things such as distinguishing facial features and reading.

"This is a system with a great deal of potential for the future," states Dr. Tallman. "New research in this field is always exciting and encouraging." However, she stresses that in addition to this system, there are many other excellent optical aids and devices already available to enable the low vision patient to read, write and to continue with lifelong hobbies such as sewing or knitting. She recommends a low vision evaluation for anyone who is struggling with daily tasks and has been told that a change in their eyeglass prescription will not improve their vision.

Dr. Tallman joins the eyecare specialists at Tallman Eye Associates who are dedicated to medical excellence and quality eyecare. As a multi-specialty eyecare practice, Tallman Eye Associates provides a wide range of services from routine eyecare to the most advanced surgical procedures such as No-Stitch Cataract Surgery and Refractive Surgery for Nearsightedness and Astigmatism. Tallman Eye Associates has offices in five convenient locations in Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire, with the main office located at 50 Prospect Street in Lawrence. Dr. Kristin Tallman will be accepting new patients at most of these offices.

For an appointment, kindly call (508) 688-6182.

Careful planning culminates in Edgewood ground- breaking

When ground was broken for the new Edgewood life-care retirement community in North Andover on September 20, the occasion was actually the culmination of years of planning and preparation.

Edgewood is being developed and will be managed by Life Care Services Corporation, (LCS), the nation's industry leader with more than 30 years of experience serving some 20,000 residents in more than 60 retirement communities. Edgewood also has a Board of Trustees made up of local health care professionals, business people and clergy.

Located adjacent to historic Edgewood Farm and near Lake Cochichewick, Edgewood will combine a quality lifestyle with personal security. Private apartment homes will be decorated and furnished by the residents themselves. First-class services and amenities will be provided, allowing residents more free time to pursue personal interests. A busy schedule of recreation and community activities will offer the opportunity for a lifestyle as active and social as anyone could want.

Equally important is the security and peace of mind at Edgewood retirement will represent. Twenty-four hour community security will give resident confidence at home and while traveling. 49. Have more fun!

If even 25 of the above appeal to you, and you're currently not exercising - it's time to get that body moving! Results are obviously dependent upon your commitment and desire. If you've never run before, you probably won't have the desire to start training for the Boston Marathon. But everybody has to start somewhere! An effective exercise program can be started at any age

(with your physicians support and a little instruction). Age is no longer a barrier to exercise; the thought that only the young and beautiful people have the time, energy, or money to participate in a program is a myth.

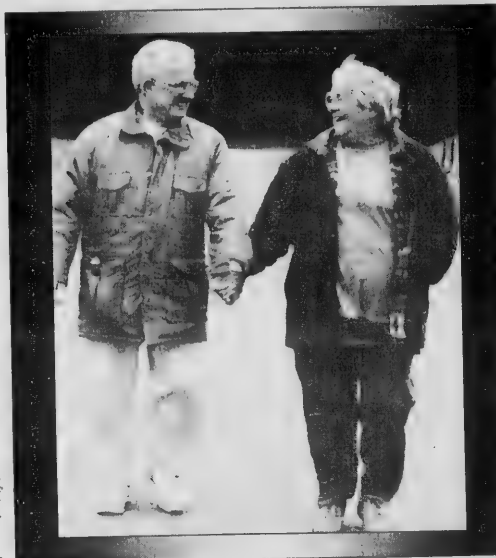

Time to exercise is there if you want it to be! Scheduling fitness into your day is manageable - with some thought and planning. Look at your day from start to finish and see where you can sneak 15 minutes in here, 20 minutes in there. Be realistic - you don't have to do it every day!

Research studies in the industry of health and fitness have been done with people in their 80s and 90s and have shown that gentle muscular and flexibility routines have not only improved strength, balance and range of motion but have had positive effects on self-esteem and independence.

Financially, a fitness program can be achieved without great investment. As simple as a pair of sturdy, comfortable shoes can be the start of a walking regime. As complex as high tech equipment and state of the art technical support.

Okay, the big question. Why did we choose 49 Reasons to Exercise? Because Cedardale Athletic Club is offering a $49.00 one month - Introduction to Exercise program! For less than 50 bucks you will have unlimited access to the club, four instructional, group classes in cardiovascular and muscular exercise and a special offer to join the club when your month is over. Please refer to the Intro to Exercise advertisement for class time and details. We think you'll be glad you did!

Age-related medical research still needed

By Martha A. McSteen

The stereotype that older people are an intolerable burden on our health care system is worrisome enough because it is devoid of compassion. Beyond that, however, it is simply off-target. The question "Who shall pay..." is the wrong question.

The right question would be, "How can we, as a society, best meet the challenge of providing affordable, high-quality health care to our aging population?" The answer to this question is, "By substantially increasing our investment in age-related biomedical, clinical and behavioral research." The reasons for doing so were succinctly summarized in the opening paragraph of a 1991 report from the Institute of Medicine:

"Science offers the best hope to improve the older person's quality of life. Research that is directed and supported properly can provide the means to reduce disability and dependence in old age, and can decrease the burdens on a health care system strained to its limits."

Research Priorities

The National Institute on Aging's research portfolio includes all major diseases and disabling conditions associated with old age. The top priority is Alzheimer's disease, followed by osteoporotic hip fractures and the loss of bladder control. This targeting of major conditions leading to long-term care reflects the view that this offers the best chance of improving the quality of seniors' lives and containing the costs of health care.

Research by Disease

At present, Alzheimer's disease afflicts an estimated four million persons over age 65. It costs the nation $90 billion a year.

Among fractures related to osteoporosis, a disease characterized by loss of bone density, hip fracture is the most serious. More than 90 percent of such fractures occur in persons over 70, and more than 90 percent of these fractures result from falls.

It is especially important to continue research that re-examines, with an open mind, old assumptions about aging. Many conditions long believed to be the inevitable and irreversible by-products of old age have turned out to be not so inevitable, after all. One example is a form of high blood pressure called isolated systolic hypertension, or ISH. A nationwide clinical trial showed it can be treated successfully, cheaply, and without side effects. Researchers believe that treating ISH prevents up to 84,000 annual admissions to hospitals and nursing homes (mostly for strokes now known to be preventable) and saves $200 million a year.

Health Services Research

In health services research, the focus is not on fundamental discoveries or new and better treatments. It is efficiency, and the idea is to identify better, cheaper ways of delivering health care services to more people. It is day-to-day operations research, unglamorous but essential.

You can learn more about issues of special concern to older Americans, including Social Security and Medicare, by joining the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, an organization devoted to improving retirement income and health care. Free brochures about the organization and a copy of its magazine are available by writing to: National Committee, 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Transperineal prostate seed implant available at Holy Family Hospital

It is estimated approximately 200,000 cases of prostate cancer will be diagnosed this year in this country. Now early detection is possible using PSA (Prostate Specific Antigen) blood test and ultrasound guided biopsy.

There are many options in treating organ confined early prostate cancer. Patients now prefer being treated using organ preservation techniques with the least side effects and lowest cost.

Holy Family Hospital started Transperineal Ultrasound Guided Prostate Radioactive Seed Implant procedures one year ago. This has become a successful regional prostate seed implant center based in the Merrimack Valley. Patients are referred here not only from Massachusetts but also from the entire New England area and other parts of the country.

Holy Family Hospital was able to establish this procedure because of availability of state-of-the-art ultrasound equipment, optimal radioactive isotope seeds, specialized computer system, and the team work of talented Radiation Oncologists and Urologists.

All implants are done as surgical day care procedure and patients fully recover and return to work in 48 hours. The side effects are minimal and results are very favorable as comparable to other modalities.

Music mecca is inexpensive haven

One of the biggest attractions in the country can be found in a small town in America's heartland. In fact, nearly six million people travel to Branson, Missouri every year, attracted by musical shows, theme parks, clear lake water and an affordable price tag. Recognized by AAA as America's second most popular travel destination by car (after Orlando) the town's top draw is its unbeatable live entertainment, but the area's outdoor activities and natural wonders run a close second.

Just a few miles from the sights and sounds of Branson's "76 Strip" theater district, families can take advantage of affordable lake-side resorts and water activities. Table Rock Lake, known for its unspoiled natural beauty and its bass fishing, offers opportunities for sailing, skiing, swimming, jet skiing and scuba diving.

State parks, nature trails and area caves are popular with hikers, campers and explorers. One particularly delightful cave is Springfield's Fantastic Caverns which visitors explore in brightly colored trams.

Theme parks offer all the thrilling adventures of amusement parks set to the inspiring historical theme of the turn-of-the-century Ozarks. At Silver Dollar City, more than 100 resident artisans demonstrate age-old hill country crafts. Adventure seekers travel through the woods at speeds up to 55 miles per hour on Thunderation, the park's newest roller coaster. An old-time county fair is reenacted, complete with a beautiful antique carousel and a 45-foot Ferris wheel at Mutton Hollow, and at the Shepherd of the Hills Homestead, visitors tour the park on trams, horseback or in a wagon drawn by Clydesdales.

Theme parks offer all the thrilling adventures of amusement parks set to the inspiring historical theme of the turn-of-the-century Ozarks.

All this is easy on the pocketbook, too. According to research by the Ozark Marketing Council, quality hotels are abundant at an average of $60 per room, theater ticket prices range from $16 to $24 and admission to Branson's theme and waterparks runs from $10 to $25.

On the music entertainment front, there's the chance to get autographs of stars at more than 30 theaters. Newer attractions include the Charley Pride Theatre, the Glen Campbell Goodtime Theater, the Lawrence Welk Champagne Theatre, the Country Tonite Theater, "The Will Rogers Follies" and a new Ripley's Believe It or Not Museum.

For free booklets about fun in the Ozarks, see a travel agent, or call the Branson Chamber of Commerce at 417-334-2564; the Springfield Convention and Visitors Bureau at 800-678-8767 or the Kimberling City Chamber of Commerce at 417-739-2564.

You have prostate cancer. Now, you have a choice.

It's called radioactive seed implant therapy. And Holy Family Hospital is one of the few hospitals in New England to offer this latest breakthrough in prostate cancer treatment: No radical surgery nor prolonged external radiation is required. And normal activities are resumed within 48 hours—usually while retaining complete urinary and sexual functions, and with few or no long-term side effects. For many men, it's a more effective, more comfortable choice than prostate removal or prolonged external radiation. For more information on prostate seed implant therapy, contact Holy Family Hospital today at (508) 688-1861.

Programmable hearing aid cuts down background noise

Siemens, a leader in electronics and hearing aid technology, has announced the smallest programmable hearing aid available on the market today. The Illusion is one of the latest CIC (completely in the canal) hearing instruments. As such, it is only visible by looking down into the ear canal of the wearer.

Siemens has incorporated technology only available in much larger instruments, until now. The Illusion can automatically compensate for the loudness of incoming sounds, making it more effective in noise and other adverse circumstances.

The programmable feature makes it highly adaptable to the users' requirements. And if hearing or requirements change, the unit can be reset to accommodate those changes.

The human cochlea is where most non-corrective hearing loss is located. The cochlea is the structure which looks like a snail, and houses the individually tuned hair cells, that send signals to the brain. This type of hearing loss is called "nerve deafness" or sensorineural hearing loss.

The normal cochlea automatically compresses the signals received from the outside world. The impaired cochlea loses this ability with the loss of hearing. The resulting abnormal "growth of loudness" makes most hearing aids less effective for a significant percentage of wearers. The results are evidenced by the user having to change the volume frequently, or not hearing clearly in the presence of background noise.

The programmable CIC automatically compensates for this abnormal growth of loudness, making it extremely effective for the wearer, while being the most discreet of instruments available today.

In all CIC instruments made today, this feature is absent. The resultant units are almost invisible when worn, but unable to adjust to the wide variety of listening situations, and unable to be programmed to adjust for hearing loss changes.

The Siemens Illusion is truly a marriage of high tech processing - resulting in effective hearing compensation, and a small housing - resulting in a most cosmetic, least noticeable unit available today.

Call Audio Hearing Center today at 475-9595 to learn more about this revolutionary hearing aid.

Focus on feet for preventive health care

Many of America's seniors are taking steps to improve their health by putting a new focus on their feet.

According to the U. S. National Center for Health Statistics, one of the leading causes of activity limitation in older people is impairment of the lower extremities. One-fourth of all nursing home patients cannot walk at all and another one-sixth can walk only with assistance.

Preventive foot care can help older people live more comfortably; it also reduces the chances of hospitalization because of infection and limits the possibility of additional medical problems, says the American Podiatric Medical Association (APMA). Many of the first signs of systemic conditions such as diabetes, arthritis and circulatory disease appear in the foot. Among these are dry skin, brittle nails, numbness and discoloration. Professional care is needed when these signs appear.

If arthritis is affecting the structure and function of the feet, symptoms often include swelling in one or more joints; recurring pain or tenderness in any joint; redness or heat in a joint; limitation in motion of a joint; early morning stiffness; and skin changes, including rashes and growths. Even bunions can be manifestations of arthritis.

The control of foot functions with shoe inserts called orthoses, or with braces or specially prescribed shoes, may be indicated; surgical intervention involving the replacement of damaged joints, is a last resort.

Here are some foot health tips that people of any age would be wise to follow:

- Walking is the best exercise for your feet.
- A shoe with a firm sole and soft upper is best for daily activities.
- Socks or stockings should be of the correct size and preferably free of seams.
- Do not wear constricting garters or tie your stocking in knots.
- Never cut corns and calluses with a razor, pocket knife or other such instrument.
- Bathe your feet daily in lukewarm (not hot) water, using a mild soap.
- Trim or file your toenails straight across.
- Inspect your feet every day or have someone do this for you. If you notice any redness, swelling, cracks in the skin, or sores, consult your podiatrist.

For free brochures that can tell you more about foot health and aging, call APMA at 1-800-FOOT-CARE (1-800-366-8227).

Skin resurfacing available at Leahey Eye Clinic

The Leahey Eye Clinic of Lowell, Billerica and Salem, NH has now added to its practice the UltraPulse 5000C for skin resurfacing. Using the most advanced laser technology, the UltraPulse safely, precisely, and effectively removes skin surface imperfections and skin lines and wrinkles. UltraPulse precision allows for more natural-looking skin.

We were all born with smooth, baby-soft skin. As we go through life, our skin is subject to numerous experiences that leave it less than perfect. For many of us, our first exposure to skin problems is with chicken pox in childhood, then acne scars for some of us in our teen years, and beyond.

For those of us lucky enough to escape these hazards, time, heredity and gravity are still doing their part to create fine lines and wrinkles, especially around the mouth and eyes. Overexposure to the sun, alcohol use, and smoking are all known to significantly accelerate the development of these natural signs of aging. Other surface imperfections, such as moles, warts, superficial skin cancers and actinic keratoses also may develop over time to mar the skin.

Although dermabrasion and chemical peels have offered some hope for patients seeing smoother, fresher, younger-looking skin, lack of sufficient cosmetic results, risk of scarring and pigmentation problems, discomfort, and long recovery periods have kept many people from having the skin they want.

We are now able to remove surface imperfections and dramatically reduce lines and wrinkles with a new procedure called laser skin resurfacing. Using the UltraPulse 5000C Aesthetic Laser, we can gently remove sun-damaged, aging skin, layer-by-layer, helping to protect and stimulate regeneration of the deeper, healthy skin.

Unlike with dermabrasion and chemical peels, the UltraPulse laser uses a very high energy beam of light to "vaporize" scars, lines, wrinkles, and other skin defects.

Laser light penetrates to a very precise, controlled depth, making the procedure safe and predictable, and reducing the risk of scarring or pigmentation problems. Laser skin resurfacing is bloodless, and is performed right here in our office, without the costs and risks of hospitalization or anesthesia.

Because the laser is gentle, comfort both during and after the procedure is improved, and helps with a more rapid return to your normal routine.

The same laser that can help give you smoother, fresher, younger-looking skin is also used to lift drooping upper eyelids and remove the sagging under-eye bags that don't seem to go away with a good night's rest or even a vacation. These eyelid procedures are called upper and lower lid blepharoplasty.

The laser is used to remove the excess skin of the upper eyelid that causes it to droop, and because the laser seals blood vessels as it touches them, there is less bleeding, swelling, and bruising than with traditional blepharoplasty, helping to improve healing time.

For the lower eyelids, the laser is used inside the lower eyelid to make a small, bloodless incision so that the fat pads that cause the "bags" can be removed. No visible skin incision is made, and no stitches are required for this procedure.

The fine lines and crow's feet around the eyes can then be resurfaced during the same procedure to help refresh and refine the skin, and complete the rejuvenation.

We invite you to inquire about UltraPulse skin resurfacing and blepharoplasty, and how they can help give you more beautiful skin and eyes.

The Leahey Eye Clinic team of doctors has been specially trained in this advanced technique. Using the UltraPulse laser, they can gently remove sun-damaged, aging skin, layer-by-layer, helping to protect and stimulate regeneration of the deeper, healthy skin.

The UltraPulse 5000C has been featured on Donohue, CBS News, Good Morning, LA, and in health, appearance, and technology news spots all over the world for its breakthrough technology in aesthetic procedures and its remarkable results.

If you would like to learn more about skin and eyelid rejuvenation, or other oculoplastic procedures with the UltraPulse, please call the Leahey Eye Clinic at 1-508-458/4546. The Clinic looks forward to hearing from you.

The extensive menu option plan can be designed around special diets. The atmosphere of the many dining rooms at Academy Manor of Andover is one that is rarely found in a medical setting. Birthday parties and other special celebrations are gladly accommodated.

A beauty and barber shop is conveniently located at Academy Manor of Andover. Whether a permanent or a haircut, the "Hairs to You" salon can oblige.

In the gift shop Guests can charge their purchases giving them the opportunity to do their own shopping. The shop offers an array of cards, candy, gifts and sundries.

Academy Manor is proud of its long-standing service as a training site for nursing students, occupational therapy and physical therapy students and as a site for interns in administration and music therapy.

A unique support group - "Daughters of Mothers" was designed to help daughters who have mothers residing at the home.

How well do you sleep?

According to the Better Sleep Council, 100 million Americans suffer from occasional or chronic sleep problems. Poor sleep may well be the hot health topic of the next decade as research points to the fact that troubled sleepers often lead troubled lives.

People who don't sleep well complain more about fatigue, psychological and marital trouble and digestive ailments. In fact, a bad night can lead to less-than-the-best daytime performance which can cause dangerous accidents at home, on the job, or in the car.

Some sleep problems are symptoms of serious disorders that require the attention of a medical doctor.

However, most of us can greatly improve the nights of our lives simply by following these ten rules.

1. Keep regular hours
2. Remember that quality of sleep matters more than quantity
3. Exercise every day, but not too close to bedtime
4. Don't smoke
5. Avoid coffee and alcohol late in the day
6. Don't nap
7. Unwind in the evening
8. Invest in a quality mattress foundation, and replace your sleep set every eight to ten years
9. Don't go to bed starved or stuffed
10. Develop a bedtime ritual

Andover Walk-In continues to serve the area with professional and efficient medical treatment

Andover Walk-In Medical Center is celebrating its 10th birthday. We dedicate the celebration and our good health to all of our loyal staff and the 95,000 patients we've served over the years.

As a grateful part of the Merrimack Valley neighborhood, we'll continue to provide professional and efficient health care for routine illnesses like flu and earaches to minor injuries like cuts and broken bones as well as physical exams.

The Walk-In Center also offers nutrition counseling, mammography, and immunizations for international travelers.

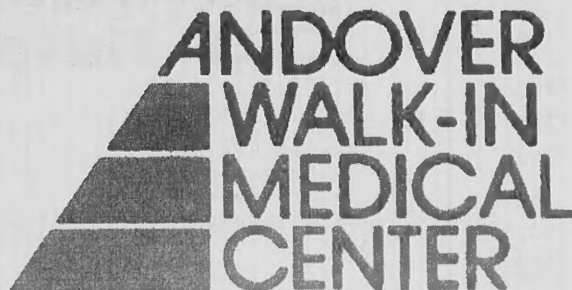

Our laboratory and x-ray facilities are right here. And there's plenty of free parking.

Andover Walk-In Medical Center will keep you the picture of health ... seven days a week.

If you have ever had trouble getting the medical care you and your family deserve, you're not alone. Increasing specialization by doctors, limited office hours and waits once you arrive are just a few of the problems that can occur.

Fortunately, there's a simple way to avoid these hassles: Come to the Andover Walk-In Medical Center at Doctors' Park.

The Walk-In Medical Center is designed to provide quality medical care - without the delays.

When you're hurt or under the weather, you feel bad enough. But waiting to receive attention only adds to your misery. At the Andover Walk-In Medical Center, the staff does everything to make your visit as pleasant as possible - from seeing you quickly to treating you with courtesy and respect.

"We never forget that you're the reason we're here," said registered nurse Pat Palermo, administrative director of the center. "And that's only natural, since we're locally-owned, not part of some health-care chain."

You never need an appointment at the Walk-In Center. Just walk in, like the name says. That means no more waiting a long time to see a doctor or to get medical attention in a busy emergency room. You can get help when it's most convenient for you.

You'll be treated by a staff that includes specialists in emergency medicine, internal medicine and/or family practice. Your registered nurse will most likely be certified in advanced life-support techniques and emergency care.

The physicians, nurses and staff are trained in ambulatory and urgent care. That means they can treat a wide variety of ailments such as colds, sore throats and flu, fractures, burns and cuts, sprains and other sports injuries, allergic reactions and minor skin infections, minor medical illnesses and physical exams.

The center has on-site X-ray, electrocardiogram and lab facilities to make diagnosis and treatment easier and more accurate. Mammography services, nutrition counseling and international travel immunizations and counseling have recently been added.

If you've ever gotten sick or hurt on a weekend, you know how hard it is to find convenient medical attention. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sunday and holidays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Payment is painless too. The center accepts cash, personal checks and major credit cards. Most services are covered by major insurance companies and HMOs, such as Tufts Health Plan and Bay State Health Care.

Making seafood at home is a snap

If the prospect of making a lobster or crab dish at home gives you "claws"-trophobia, think again. Preparing seafood can be a snap, thanks to surimi, which is riding a new wave of popularity with today's health-conscious cooks.

What's surimi? It's a seafood alternative that's been swimming in popularity in Japan since around 1100 A.D. Surimi is made from white fish that's been cleaned, minced, washed and flavored to resemble such seafood favorites as crab and lobster, and it's much easier to cook with.

That's especially true if you make a meal with surimi seafood. It is fully cooked and ready to use right out of the package. Some surimi products are fat-free, low in calories and cholesterol, and high in protein. Try this recipe

Seafood Stir-fry - serves 3

- 1 pkg. Louis Kemp Crab Delights® flakes
- 1 1/2 c. oriental-style vegetables
- 1/2 tsp. each garlic powder and ground ginger
- 2 Tbsp. soy sauce or seasoning packet from vegetables
- Heat oil in skillet. Add Crab and vegetables and stir over medium-high heat for 2 minutes. Add seasoning. Stir well. Cook 1 minute more. Serve immediately.

Home health aides certified through Wingate program

Four local residents were recently certified as home health aides after completing a training course offered by Wingate at Home, a home health care agency serving the Merrimack Valley. The course emphasized caring for elderly patients at home.

The newly-certified home health care aides are Lisa Busby of North Andover, Suzanne Dubois of Lowell, and Barry Mackin of Lawrence, who are currently nursing students at the University of Massachusetts Lowell; and Betty Cavaretta of Lawrence, who is also a certified nurses' aide.

The graduates' experience as student nurses and as a nurses' aide adds a special dimension to their work as home health care aides, according to Ann McKay, R.N., Branch Director of Wingate at Home. "We are excited about the new perspective that they have to offer to our patients," she says. All four are currently working as home health aides for Wingate at Home.

The 15-hour training course, which included clinical and ethical issues involved in the care of elderly patients at home as well as technical training, concluded with a competency examination.

The graduates are qualified to assist elderly patients at home, under the supervision of a registered nurse, with such needs as bathing, meal preparation, dressing, and ambulation.

Classroom training was held at Wingate at Home in North Andover, with technical training done at Wingate at Andover, Wingate's skilled nursing facility. The course was coordinated by Allison Basmajian, RN., M.S.N., Staff Development Coordinator for Wingate at Home, and taught by Diane Barrett, R.N., B.S.N., Staff development Coordinator for Wingate at Andover, and home health aide consultant, Helen DiLena, RN., B.S.N.

Wingate at Home plans to continue its home health aide training program. For information on future classes, contact Ann McKay at (508) 682-7181.

In addition to Medicare-certified nursing and home health aide services, Wingate at Home offers social services, nutrition counseling, and physical, occupational, and speech therapy to patients in more than a dozen communities throughout the Merrimack Valley, Greater Lowell, and Greater Boston area. It is an affiliate of Continental Wingate Company, which also operates subacute, short-term rehabilitative and skilled nursing facilities in Andover and Reading.

Safety suggestions for grandparents

Many of America's grandparents may be pleased to learn much more is being done these days to protect children in cars than when they themselves were children or young parents. Here are a few do's and don'ts from experts at the AARP Auto and Homeowners Insurance Program, on how to protect your precious cargo:

Don't let a child ride in the arms or on the lap of another passenger, even if that passenger wears a seat belt. Crash forces will tear the child out of the grasp of even the strongest adult or cause the child to be crushed between the adult and dashboard.

Don't let children ride unrestrained even for a very short time. They should be strapped in whenever they ride.

Do be sure to secure a child safety seat into the vehicle with the vehicle safety belts. A safety seat that's not secure is totally ineffective.

Don't forget to properly fasten the safety seat's harness or shoulder straps.

Do make sure infants ride facing backwards in their safety seats. Rear-facing child safety seats should always go in the rear seat in cars equipped with passenger-side air bags.

Do follow instructions provided by the safety seat manufacturer and the vehicle owners manual for proper installation and use of safety seats.

Do have older children who have outgrown booster seats use regular safety belts every time they ride in the car.

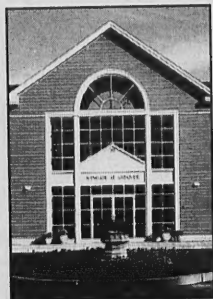

Don't let two children share one safety belt. They would be thrown against each other, hitting their heads in the event of an accident. In an emergency, three children in the rear can share two belts if the distance between the belt anchor points is at least as wide as the largest child's hips. Place the largest child in the center and criss-cross the belts.

Do always wear your seat belt in the car. Wearing your seat belt will help you to maintain better control of your car in an accident—protecting your grandchildren and providing a good example.

For the latest information on what car seats and child booster seats are federally approved, call the Auto Safety Hotline: 1-800-424-9393.

Always make sure youngsters are properly buckled up in child safety seats or, when those are outgrown, in seat belts.
